'Swifty' Lorente, Dead in Cuba

This is the story of the short, happy life of Lorenzo (Swifty) Lorente, recently dead of a firing squad in Cuba. The news of his passing was just a line in a story about cabinet changes in the Castro government. Yet, all Cuba had waited almost breathlessly to see what would happen to Swifty Lorente. In a very real sense, the integrity of the revolution was involved.

When, therefore, radio informed Cubans that Swifty Lorente was indeed dead, following a court trial and order, a great, long-held sigh of relief went up from those who believe in the ideals of the 26th of July Movement.

The fate of Lorente had been the subject of discussion, hot and cynical, in the bars and cantinas since Fidel Castro came to power. Lorente had been his good friend. He was a trusted, valued member of the dedicated band which so long endured in the Sierra Maestra mountains of Oriente Province. But above all, he was a close friend.

So close was he that one day when the Castro rebels were desperate for arms and ammunition, Fidel himself gave him orders and entrusted him with $30,000 to go into Havana and arrange with agents for the supplies.

The $30,000

He reached Havana safely. But the $30,000 burned in his pockets. He decided to spend a bit of it on a few drinks and perhaps a girl. Alcohol loosened his tongue and eroded his discretion. He talked. He was arrested.

Confronted with the known tortures of the Batista security police, Swifty Lorente's courage departed. He told all. Indeed, he reportedly agreed to help betray some of the Castro underground.

The impossible then occurred. Batista's forces collapsed.

Swifty Lorente sought to say he had been loyal all the time, that he had not betrayed but rather had deceived. He had only pretended, he said.

Lorente was arrested by Castro forces.

The accusation against him was not that he was a traitor. The Castro government had decreed that any man who misappropriated public funds would be subject to the death penalty.

This caused the cynical doubt in the man of the street. Cuba has long been exploited by public officials.

Fidel, said the doubters, would not have his old friend killed for stealing money. The cynics said that old friend Swifty would be given a light sentence, or allowed to escape the country.

Doubts Grew

So, Cuba waited. And the doubts grew.

But, finally, on the same day the cabinet changes were announced, a firing squad took aim at Swifty Lorente, misappropriator of public funds, and blasted out his life. (Shooting is the legal method of execution in Cuba as hanging, the gas chamber or electric chair is in the United States.)

Cuba had its answer.

It was one which did not surprise those who know Castro. His weakness may be lack of administrative ability, as some think. But he is a sincere man and deeply idealistic. At the time of his appearance in Washington in April he told William Baggs, editor of The Miami News, with whom he talked for three hours, that among his major aims was a determination to put an end to the corrupt practice of "feeding off the people." "I am," he said, "going to make it more difficult to steal from the government if I accomplish nothing else."

This idealism is what makes this revolution so different from any that has happened in Latin America for a generation or more.

Land reform, at a fair price, is an integral part of Castro's revolution, as it must be in any Latin country. It is a counter to communism.

Let Americans recall that when they won their revolution from the British in 1783, our revolutionary leaders expropriated the property, businesses and farm lands, of thousands of loyalists and paid them nothing at all.

But that is another story. This is one about the short, happy life of Swifty Lorente who died for the ideals of the revolution in Cuba.

Invasion of Moths Spares Trees Here

By MARION GAINES

Atlanta tree and shrub fanciers were given cheering news Monday about the hordes of snow-white linden moths that have been swarming about their pet plants for the past few days.

Next year is soon enough to start worrying about damage by the invaders to cultivated greenery in the Atlanta area.

That's the word straight from the insect experts (entomologists in the world of science).

Snow-white linden moths are a threat to trees and shrubs, all right, but not in the airborne stage in which they swept into Atlanta—landing here, there and everywhere.

The peril to greenery comes after the moths have laid eggs to be hatched out next spring into "inchworms, which are the larvae of linden moths," said Dr. H. O. Lund of the University of Georgia's Department of Entomology.

The inchworm—which also trav-

Schools Get Limit Now, State Finds

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Georgia is spending about all the money it can right now—53 per cent of the state's income—on its schools, a House Education Subcommittee has been told.

This answer was given to the subcommittee by state School Supt. Claude Purcell, in answer to the query from the House panel to Gov. Vandiver.

A similar inquiry on state school finances was sent by the subcommittee, which is considering federal aid to education, to other governors of the nation. Vandiver turned the Georgia query over to Purcell to answer.

Most Georgia congressmen are opposed to federal aid to education. They base their opposition on fear of federal control of education and the possibility it might mean enforced large-scale integration in the schools.

Purcell did not come out in favor of federal aid to education. But in a letter to the subcommittee he strongly hinted that more money is needed from some source.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Bailey (D-W. Va.), has received recommendations from the Rockefeller Commission and

Girl, 15, Two Boys Held In Harlem Gang Death

NEW YORK (AP)—A 15-year-old Puerto Rican girl and a 17-year-old boy were held without bail on homicide charges Monday in a killing that apparently grew out of an East Harlem gang war.

A 14-year-old boy accused of actually doing the shooting Sunday night was held on juvenile delinquency charges. The trio are accused of waylaying Raul Banuchi, 17, of the Bronx in an East Harlem hallway.

Authorities say the three were trying to force information from Banuchi about a previous gang-linked killing, and when he failed to answer their questions the 14-year-old shot him.

Banuchi was said to be a member of a gang called the "Untouchables," and the other three were described as members of the "Dragons" gang. All are Puerto Ricans.

The girl, Carmen Martinez, screamed hysterically, kicked and cursed as she was being led out of a police station to a police wagon, on her way to police headquarters and adolescent court.

It took five policemen to carry her into the wagon.

But at the arraignment later,

Ministers Recess for 'Cool Off'

Day Gives Reds Chance to Yield

GENEVA (UPI)—The Big Four foreign ministers Monday night agreed on a one-day "cooling off" recess in their faltering negotiations on Berlin. The decision gave Russia another chance to make concessions that could save the conference from failure.

The ministers agreed at a 2½-hour secret session to meet again on Wednesday. But other developments at their meeting in the French villa plunged the conference into a crisis mood.

BRENTANO SUMMONED

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter remained behind with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville after Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko left. The Western ministers summoned West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano to their private parley which continued long past the dinner hour.

Diplomats drew some comfort from the fact that Wednesday's scheduled session was to be private rather than a semi-public plenary meeting. The real business at the six-week-old conference has been done in the private meetings.

'LAST-GASP' EFFORT

It was at Lloyd's urging that the United States and France agreed to the last-gasp effort to start the sixth week of negotiations and give Russia a chance to make concessions that would salvage both the conference and the chance of a summit meeting.

Herter, Lloyd and Couve de Murville met privately before as well as after the crucial twilight meeting with Gromyko.

Both Herter and Couve de Murville were reluctant to continue the talks if Gromyko stood on his ultimatum of last Wednesday that the West had one year to get out of West Berlin or "face the consequences." But Britain wanted to keep the talks going. The West's objectives are to:

—Decide within the Western alliance on absolute rock-bottom terms for an agreement on Berlin.

—Seek Gromyko's acceptance of these terms at least as a basis for putting the whole issue before a summit conference. Then set the date for such a conference.

Gromyko Stirs Red Boss' Wrath, Paper Reports

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Sketch newspaper said Monday that Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko's Berlin ultimatum to the Western Big Three foreign ministers last Wednesday made Soviet Premier Khrushchev angry. Khrushchev "is said to have made it clear to him that he was lousing things up," and consequently Gromyko had to back track, according to the correspondent.

GOV. LONG STILL CONFINED AFTER HIS HEARING IN GALVESTON
Left, He Enters the Court; Right, Yells "Still in Jail" as He Is Returned to Hospital

Judge Puts Off Ruling For Week

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana was ordered back to his mental clinic for another week Monday night. He drove away from the Galveston courthouse yelling, "Still in jail, still in jail."

District Court Judge L. D. Godard ordered the week delay in order to study evidence through which the governor hopes to free himself and through which the Long family hopes to force hospital treatment on the fiery 63-year-old governor.

"I believe in all fairness a little time in which to reflect and study this case is in order," said Judge Godard.

SANITY HEARING DELAYED

Judge Godard also announced postponement of Tuesday's sanity hearing after a conference with Probate Court Judge Hugh Gibson, who would have presided over the session. The sanity hearing was moved back one week.

Later, Gibson told the Associated Press there was no limitation on the order he issued June 2 putting Long in the protective custody of the hospital.

Gibson said his order put Long in the hospital's care until further notice of the court and since there have been no further notices, "that will hold him."

Gibson told newsmen Long indicated that if a trial is held questioning the governor's mental status, Long wants to be present and protest it.

ATTORNEYS AGREEABLE

Attorneys said after the decision they felt that if they went into a sanity hearing Tuesday, before any habeas corpus ruling, they would be waiving their challenge of the Probate Court's jurisdiction over Long.

Godard told attorneys he was

Ike May Take Program to People

By FELIX BELAIR JR.
(Copyright, 1959, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower is thinking about appealing directly to the nation in his fight for the administration's legislative reform unless Congress changes its present tune on his labor reform, foreign aid and other major bills.

Sen. Morton (Ky), the Republican national chairman, said after a conference with him Monday that Eisenhower also was planning an aggressive role in the presidential campaign next year—"as aggressive as the duties of his office will permit."

The President's tentative decision to go over the head of Congress and enlist public support of his program brought a prompt retort from Sen. Johnson (Tex), the majority leader. He said he thought it "strange that the President couldn't wait until Congress got through with its work before using the Republican National Committee to pass judgment on it."

JOHNSON HOPES

Johnson said he hoped the President would not get "too impatient" and added:

"It seems to me that perhaps some people are getting a little frightened—not so much about the legislative program in '59 as they are about the election in '60."

The Republican chairman said on leaving the President's office that Eisenhower "is going to have to exert pressure to get what he wants" in foreign aid and labor legislation. He said, "I'd like to use the big gun as often as I can since he is the best salesman the Republican party has."

SAW BIG GUNS

In an obvious reference to the Democratic sweep of congressional election contests last fall despite active campaigning by the President and Vice President Nixon, Johnson remarked that "we saw all the big guns out in '58."

"If the President wants to be helpful on a legislative program for all America," Johnson said, "he could get some senators who are playing politics with it to come back and help pass it. We do have a substantial amount of legislation passed. We have a pro-

PLANE DELAYED

18 Monkeys Fail to Show For Greeting

A bunch of monkeys spoiled the plans of a welcoming committee Monday night at Atlanta Airport, but it wasn't their fault.

There are 18 monkeys in all, 12 gibbon-type primates and six baboons, headed for Grant Park Zoo.

Their plane, a Delta cargo-flight out of Miami, was forced down in Orlando.

A delegation headed by George I. Simons, superintendent of the Atlanta Parks department, and Johnny Dilbeck, zoo keeper, had planned to be at the airport for the monkeys' arrival.

Simons said he was anxious to get a look at the monkeys, but that he wasn't going to hang around the airport until all hours for their monkeyshines.

He didn't know whether monkey business had anything to do with the flight delay or not.

Butler Slum Clearance Approved

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Aldermen Monday paved the way for the start of Atlanta's multi-million-dollar urban renewal program by July 1. They passed without debate the first project—the $100 million renewal in the Butler area.

Officials spearheading the program said acquisition of property probably can begin by July 1.

Aldermen also took the following other actions designed to expedite or facilitate the giant urban renewal program:

1. Adopted a revised and consolidated housing and slum clearance code and placed enforcement under the primary direction of Col. Malcolm Jones, head of the city's urban renewal department.

2. Provided $15,331 for the salaries of a staff of six to undertake inspections and initiate enforcement under Jones' direction.

3. Set final public hearings before the aldermanic board's urban renewal committee at 2 p.m. Friday, June 26, at the city hall on the Rawson-Washington and the Thomasville urban renewal projects. Ald. Hamilton Douglas, committee chairman, invited any citizens interested in the two projects to be present and present their views.

4. Voted to reimburse Cecil Alexander, chairman of the citizens advisory committee, sponsoring renewal, and Col. Jones for money they may spend in surveying other cities to learn how they

Fireman Arrives Too Late to Put Out Own Fire

Lt. Frank Richardson of the Forest Park Fire Department answered the phone:

"There's an automobile afire in the super market parking lot," reported a man's voice. (Directions followed.)

Richardson reached the scene in a hurry. The dash was still smouldering on the 1954 Ford station wagon. But an alert citizen had already extinguished the electrical fire.

Three children still seated inside the vehicle soberly regarded Richardson.

Waves of Police Ringing Kidnapers

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. (AP)—Two gunmen who held a man hostage for 10 days, most of the time in an automobile trunk, and who are wanted for questioning in the slaying of a Philadelphia policemen were believed pinned down Monday night in rough terrain by hordes of policemen.

Police swarmed into the dense woods in waves in their hunt for John Coyle, 23, and his brother, William, 21, about a half-mile from a major Boston-to-Cape Cod highway.

The hostage, William Sedgwick, 49, Roxborough, a section of Philadelphia, was released — half starved and exhausted — by two policemen who forced the bandits to abandon their car following a $112 liquor store holdup.

Sedgwick was seized June 6 in his own car, a half block from his Philadelphia office. The pair jammed him into the trunk and kept him there most of the time during their flight to Massachusetts.

"I never expected to get out alive," Sedgwick sobbed from a St. Luke's Hospital bed.

Sedgwick was so weak he had to be assisted from the car when freed.

"I never saw two more welcome policemen," he said. "I hadn't eaten in a week.

"I was numb all over. I lost track of time, I prayed, Lord how I prayed. I thought any minute they'd put a gun to my head and kill me."

Fair and Mild On Menu Again

More fair and mild weather is forecast for the Atlanta area Tuesday and Wednesday.

Temperature extremes for Tuesday are expected to be 66 and 87; Wednesday's should be 66 and 88. The temperature range in Atlanta Monday was 63 to 85.

Senate Panel Boosts, Okays Ike Aid Bill

Drastically Revised Measure Sweetens Pot by $256 Million

By RUSSELL BAKER
(Copyright, 1959, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a drastically revised foreign aid bill Monday, carrying $3,165,000,000 in new money and $1,000,000,000 in new lending authority for the coming year.

One of the unusual aspects of the action was an increase of $256,000,000 above the amount the administration requested. In the past each committee of Congress has customarily cut administration requests.

The administration had asked for $3,090,000,000. The total in appropriations and lending authority authorized by the committee is $4,165,000,000. Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) committee chairman, pointed out however that it was doubtful whether more than $500,000,000 of the new lending authority would be used in 1960.

APPROVED 13-2

The committee completed action on the bill and reported it to the Senate, by a vote of 13-to-2, as debate opened in the House Monday afternoon on its version of the aid bill.

A final vote on the House version, which authorizes $3,642,600,000, is possible by Wednesday. There was no voting on the bill in the House Monday although on the procedural issue whether to take up the measure, foreign aid opponents were easily defeated, 277-to-93.

As now shaped by the Senate committee the bill would make fundamental changes in the character of the foreign aid program. It would give the Development Loan Fund, which makes long-term low interest development loans to underdeveloped countries, five years of guaranteed financing with power to lend an average of $1,000,000,000 a year.

BOOSTS NATO

In addition, it would cut sharply into military assistance for under-developed nations and greatly increase military aid to North Atlantic Treaty countries.

I would force some curtailment of direct military aid to Latin America and begin to funnel military assistance funds for that area instead into a new hemispheric police force directed by the Organization of American States.

It would also require the administration to prepare plans for the eventual total abolition of special assistance and defense support.

The major change voted by the committee Monday directs that a total of $1,100,000,000 in military assistance be earmarked only for the NATO countries. The administration had requested only $877,000,000 for NATO and a total of $1,600,000,000 for all military assistance programs.

Court Refuses Plea Of 6 in Clinton Riots

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court denied a hearing Monday to six persons convicted of contempt in 1957 for cooperating with segregationist John Kasper in an attempt to thwart school integration in Clinton, Tenn.

The court acted in a brief order without a written opinion as it strove to clean up its docket before adjourning for the summer. A number of important cases still are pending.

The six were convicted with Kasper of violating a court order barring interference with the admission of 12 Negro pupils at Clinton High School, the scene of anti-integration riots in 1956. They were accused of threatening some of the Negroes enroute to the school.

NAMES GIVEN

During the disorders, some prosegregationists beat up a minister, Rev. Paul Turner, who was escorting some of the Negro children.

The six individuals, who were sentenced to various terms of probation, were Alonzo Bullock, Lawrence J. Brantely, William A. Brakebill ,Clyde Andy Cook, Mary Nell Currier and Willard H. Till.

Kasper himself drew a six-month jail term to be served at the end of the one-year term he was then serving. He filed a separate appeal which still is pending before the high court.

Kasper's original contempt conviction stemmed from a speech he made in August, 1956, inciting the citizens of Anderson County to violate the court order.

In other actions, the court:

— Unanimously reversed the murder conviction of Henry Napue, a Chicago Negro now serving a 199-year prison term for his part in the 1938 slaying of a policeman during a holdup.

—Ruled 6-2 that a needy person need not pay even a nominal fee before appealing a criminal conviction to higher state courts. It acted in the case of William W. Burns, sentenced to life in prison for a 1953 burglary in Cincinnati, Ohio.

RULES AGAINST NAACP

—Denied an appeal by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) from an Arkansas ruling requiring it to pay $350 in back corporation taxes.

—Declined to consider an appeal by the Seneca Indians to stop the government from building a dam near Kinzua, Pa., that would flood much of their reservation in up state New York.

Leninist Poet Heads Writers in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Poet Stepan P. Shchipachev, 59, was named chairman of the Moscow Writers Union Monday in the wake of a shakeup of the federated Russian Republic Writers Union. He is known for his poems about Lenin, which fit him into the current Leninist revival program.

All 98 Are Rescued From Blazing Ship

LONDON (AP)—Ninety-eight men, 10 Americans among them, were picked up from lifeboats 500 miles off the Irish coast Monday after a fast-spreading fire made a torch of the British cable-laying ship Ocean Layer.

The blaze started in the engine room as the 4,534-ton vessel headed slowly for France stringing behind it a transatlantic cable which will give America its first direct telephone service with the continent.

Fifteen minutes after sending his first SOS, Capt. A. MacPherson Ross radioed he had been forced to order "abandon ship."

12 AMERICANS SAVED

Just over an hour later the rescue ship, the 5,326-ton German freighter Flavia, reported she had picked up all aboard, including the 86 of the ship's crew and the 12 cable engineers of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The British Coast Guards reported the German ship later put three men aboard the Ocean Layer. The fire was reported nearly out.

The German vessel reported the Ocean Layer was anchored by the cable she was laying.

NONE INJURED

They were: Fred J. Herr, Morristown, N.J.; Ogden D. Gensemer, of Summit, N.J., who was in charge of the operation; Frank J. Patuallaz, Huntington, N.Y.; Charles P. Calhoun, Verona, N.J.; Ralph H. Kammerer, Manhasset, N.Y.; Wayne B. Johnson, Oakland, Calif.; Henry W. Lauridsen, Parsippany, N.J.; Henry McClelland, Indianapolis, Ind.; Stanley H. Miller, Sunbury, Pa.; and M. M. McCustin.

At first it was thought two men had been lost. They had been left behind on the burning ship during the confusion. But they were sighted by lookouts before the Flavia pulled away and a small boat went back and took them off. Apparently no one was injured during the rescue. The sea was calm.

SERVICE DELAYED?

The Ocean Layer, owned by Submarine Cables, Ltd., of London, was engaged in a 40-million-dollar project backed by AT&T, and the government-owned telephone services of France and West Germany.

When completed, the new cable line will make a call to Europe as simple as an ordinary long distance conversation inside the United States. Most of the traffic is now carried by radio telephone and sometimes is subject to atmospheric interference.

U.S., Soviet To Consider Space Police

GENEVA—U.S., British and Soviet experts will meet here next Monday to study a system for policing in outer space the proposed ban on atomic and hydrogen bomb explosions.

The three-power conference attempting to draft a treaty outlawing nuclear weapons tests agreed to the scientific study at its 95th session Monday. The experts will make their report to the conference not later than June 29.

Agreement was reached on the terms of reference for the experts after some give and take. However they permit the type of broad study demanded by the United States with British support, Western sources said.

Vandiver Rates Road Keep High

Surplus Sought For Protection

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Road maintenance will have high priority in the sharing of state surplus funds—if there are any—Gov. Vandiver said Monday.

Other than that, he was highly secretive about allocations to other departments.

Vandiver said he would not come to any final decisions nor make any announcements until after the surplus is figured June 30.

Asked whether there would be any money for 100 per cent state-aid (county contract) roads, he gave a stock reply:

"I'll let you know about that on the first of July."

But the governor did break his silence enough to indicate he considers maintenance of prime importance.

HOPES FOR FUNDS

"We are hopeful we'll be able to have some funds for maintenance,' he declared.

"We've got an $800 million investment in roads. We can't afford to let them go to pot. We'll have to do the best we can," he added.

Time is running rapidly out for the governor to reach decisions on the budgets for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Quarterly allocations can be made no later than about July 10.

Vandiver at his morning news conference confirmed published reports that he had held a lengthy fish-fry and discussion session for appointive department heads at the Mansion last week.

He said he told the agency heads that "we have to hold the line and work together."

The governor reportedly quizzed the agency heads at length about the operations of their departments at the meeting.

COMMITMENTS

Although revenue collections during the first 11 months of the present fiscal year are up $16.5 million, no surplus can be declared officially until July 1.

And much of the estimated $20 million increase for the current fiscal year already is spoken for.

The Department of Education, for instance, will need about $8 million just to take care of normal increases in enrollment and teacher-certification advances.

The University System is asking for something like $3 million more.

And part of the increase must go to removing the deficit at which the state was operating on Jan. 1, when Vandiver went into office.

Most attention now is centered on how much more money the Highway Department will get from the surplus.

Commissioners in a large number of counties are unhappy because 100 per cent state aid has dried up completely.

LOW ON MAINTENANCE

Highway officials have replied that all currently available funds are going for administration, maintenance, matching federal funds and paying off the $8 million-a-year debt incurred by ex-Gov. Marvin Griffin's Rural Roads Authority bonds.

And highway officials say maintenance under current allotments is woefully inadequate.

A Senate Government Operations Committee reported recently that the highway system is in "critical" need of $32 million worth of maintenance.

U.S. Output Flirts With Boom Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's mines, mills and factories poured out evidence last month that the business recovery is becoming a full-fledged boom.

Industrial production rose two points to a record rate at 152 per cent of the 1947-49 average, the Federal Reserve Board reported Monday.

The index climbed two points above the April rate which, the board announced, has been revised upward. The April gain was found to have been three points instead of the two points reported last month.

The board's national summary of business conditions said the index — a measure of physical production whose decline in 1957 foreshadowed the business slump, now stands six points, or 4 per cent, above the prerecession high. That was 146, recorded in February 1957.

The reserve board's capsule review of the economy in May said:

"Expansion in industrial activity continued in May, employment increased further, and the decrease in unemployment was again considerably larger than seasonal.

"Consumer incomes and buying attained new highs, and business plans for plant and equipment outlays in 1959 were revised upward."

Especially encouraging gain were measured in the durable goods industries—autos, home appliances, machinery and metal products, but the reserve board noted that output of such nondurables as food, textiles, chemicals and paper continued to expand to new high ground.

"Production of farm machinery, motor trucks, and industrial and commercial equipment showed further gains," the board said.

"Output of household durable goods and autos also rose. Production of building materials and most nonferrous metals continued to increase.

"Steel mill operations, maintained at 93 per cent of capacity in May, rose one additional percentage point in early June."

The reserve board did not offer an estimate of what portion of the steel industry's activity might be attributed to advance buying by users who fear either a steel strike on July 1 or a price increase resulting from the current steel wage talks—or both.

Many government economists foresee a sharp drop in steel production in July, whether or not a strike occurs, and believe this will be sufficient to check the steady rise of industrial production that has gone on since April 1958. That was the recession low point; the index in April 1958 stood at 126 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

One adverse factor was reported: housing starts in May dipped below the seasonally adjusted rate of the two preceeding months.

Some economists believe housing already is feeling the pinch of tight credit and rising interest rates, but the board merely noted that the May rate of housing starts was equivalent to the high rate of 1,340,000 dwellings a year.

Nonfarm employment increased 230,000 in May and, at 52,100,000, was two million above a year earlier, the board said. Rehiring by durable goods manufacturers accounted for half of the increase.

Unemployment declined substantially and represented only 4.9 per cent of the labor force, compared with 5.8 per cent two months earlier.

Strong consumer demand was shown by a 2 per cent increase in retail sales from the previous months. Sales stood 10 per cent above a year ago, and the number of new autos sold was the greatest for the month since the industry's banner year, 1955.

to report that the monkeys are blameless.

A man in Orlando said the plane had been held up because of leak in its hydraulic brakes.

The man also said: "The monkeys are getting plenty of air and they are going to be all right."

They were in six cages, screaming like a herd of ninnies, and were expected to be carrying on the same way there Tuesday morning.

"These monkeys were bought for their special ability to swing around on trees and things like that."

The gibbon monkey is supposed to be the lowest form of anthropoid ape; it has especially long arms.

They had a long wait, but things will be all right Tuesday morning.

The welcoming committee will come back. The monkeys will be given their bananas and sent away still gibbering to the zoo. About a month later they will be transferred to the new primate building at Grant Park.

The monkeys were purchased from the Miami Rare Bird Farm in Kendall, Fla.

How to Please a Big Cheese

Who was the Big Cheese eater during Davison's recent Swiss Foods Festival? Papa, that's who! Tall Papas, roly-poly Papas, stock broker to callow crewcut Papas all went wild over our global-size assortment of imported cheeses. Which gives you a pretty fair clue about how to make a hit with the Old Boy, this Sunday, June 21st. Give him a gift box of Swiss cheeses—wine-flavored, spiced, smoked, onion-y or garlic-y and just dandy for bedtime snack time or trotting out his own Private Stock of hors d'oeuvres on Poker Night. The boxes are gaily wrapped, ready to give at 2.98, 4.98 or 6.98. Or why not give Pop an Edam Ball; or a big brick-size hunk of Danish Harvati cheese; or Goat Milk Cheese from Norway? And if you want to prove he's the Biggest Wheel in your life, give him a giant wheel of Danish Samsoe Cheese—weighs 30 pounds, cost 30 bucks but is sure fire to win the heart of a truly dedicated Big Eater. Get your big or little cheeses today in Davison's Fine Foods, Mezzanine.

Don't buy one if you don't want to be noticed . . . once it's riding your cranium, those gorgeous lifeguards can't resist peeking. Just 1.29 gets you this triple-threat fashion that all the Beach-niks are babbling about at Davison's Beach Bar, Street Floor.

We Zigged when we should have Zagged

The girl at our telephone switchboard plugged in a call early last Monday morning and darn near dropped her head-set when she heard an excitable, high-pitched female voice say: "You distinctly said in the Davison's ad that the sewing machine has a Zig Zig attachment and I want to know what a Zig Zig does that a Zig Zag won't; I bought a machine last week that Zig Zags just fine but if a Zig Zig is better I want it!" The conversation zigged and zagged wildly on in that vein until our by-now flustered operator connected our flustered friend with the zig and zag expert—our Big Bobbin (that's our manager) in the Sewing Machine department. He, (the B.B.) apologized for the mis-stitch (pardon us, the mis-spelling) in the ad in which we, alas! zigged when we should have zagged. What may go down in history as the world's zig-zaniest conversation ended on a happy note with our sincere promise to our customer that if and when a Zig Zig is invented we (and she) will have it first.

Dr. Purcell Issues Revealing Report

News stories brought us a picture of a man caught between the devil and the deep blue sea. That man was Dr. Claude Purcell, Georgia's state superintendent of schools, in his report to a House subcommittee studying the need for federal aid to education.

Dr. Purcell stopped, the news story from Washington said, just short of coming out for federal aid. He said the state surely could use some more money—which wasn't available from any other source save federal aid.

Dr. Purcell paid the state a tribute. He told the House committee that the governor of Georgia, the Legislature and the taxpayers have done all they can. He said he would like to see Georgia's teachers' salaries brought into line where they will be at least as high as the national average. He cannot even dream of matching the best salaries. The money isn't available.

Dr. Purcell is 'twixt the devil and the deep blue sea because of politics. Georgia's congressional delegations, House and Senate, know that federal aid with local control, which would be paid on the basis of need, is necessary not merely for Georgia but all states which lack industrial and raw material resources which give many states so much wealth.

But they oppose it because of the segregation shadow which hangs over the Deep South states and does so much damage seen and unseen. It would, therefore, be politically damaging for Dr. Purcell to recommend such aid. Yet he has given much of his life to state education and it grieves him to see it, and the teachers who produce it, suffer from lack of money. Hence he is in a trap where he can only state the need and refuse to recommend.

But the fact is clear. Georgia and many other states, with higher birth rates, more children and less taxable resources, need federal aid. If they don't get it their state systems will decline. We ought to think enough of our children and their future to act in their best interests.

Georgia's schools need locally controlled federal aid—and such aid and such control can be had. It is a great pity Dr. Purcell isn't free to say so strongly and urgently.

Staff at State Hospital Suffers Another Loss

The Milledgeville State Hospital has lost another outstanding member of its staff in the resignation of Dr. Joe Combs, clinical director of the white women's division, who has accepted a position with the Missouri State Hospital No. 3.

Several weeks ago Dr. Thomas Phinizy, senior physician at the Georgia institution, left to assume a position with the South Carolina State Hospital.

Each is highly capable in his field and Georgia can ill afford to lose them. Both cooperated to the fullest in the recent investigation which is bringing about some long-needed improvements at the Milledgeville State Hospital. Georgia is indebted to them.

It should be noted that both of these men left to accept positions offering them better opportunities.

These resignations further point up the importance of changes recommended by the Schaefer Committee so as to make the hospital into the type of institution that will attract high caliber men to its staff and keep them.

The employment of competent physicians and psychiatrists to bolster the short-handed staff at the hospital should be given top priority.

Another Crown Colony Is Released by British

A bit more of the British empire has been liquidated in typical English style. That is to say, the government at Whitehall arranged for an orderly transfer of power and a free election in the crown colony of Singapore.

The most radical party on the island won the election. But the British carried out the plans as agreed. The radicals and extremists will form a government and affiliate with Malaya. Thus there is no more a British crown colony of Singapore, a city and colony founded by Sir Stamford Raffles in 1819.

The outlook is not good. There is likely to be disorders and violence. The British are freeing eight jailed extremists and they are believed to be Communist agitators.

There is an agreement that the government shall be democratic and non-Communist. But there is not the tradition for keeping agreements on the side of those now in charge. The British still will control foreign relations and the defense of the island but the full authority of government now is transferred to the new self-governing state of Singapore.

We are reminded again of a saying by former President Harry S. Truman. He said that when he made an agreement with Sir Winston Churchill it stuck. When he made one with the Russians it lasted only so long as it took the Communists to change their minds.

It is regrettable that this British action, typical of action taken in India, Burma, Ceylon and Ghana, cannot be made more meaningful to those undecided peoples who continue to see something attractive in Soviet totalitarianism.

Vice President Nixon Is Right About Prejudice

We liked what Vice President Nixon had to say in the commencement speech delivered at his Alma Mater, Whittier College. In an address to 320 members of the graduation class the vice president urged them to strike out against prejudice or hatred wherever they see it.

He spoke, too, against the pressures for conformity, which often are a part of prejudice and the acids of hatreds.

"Wherever you go and whatever you do, let your example help to make men see a little clearer the glory of justice, the beauty of friendliness," he said.

"May you ever have as your goal not simply the aim of making a good living for yourself, for which your Whittier education has admirably prepared you, but the higher objective of making this nation and this world a better place to live in.

"Wherever you encounter ignorance or provincialism, speak up for intelligent community and world responsibility."

To this we wish to say a fervent "amen" and to add our thanks to the vice president for having said it.

Newspapers Have Duty To Expose Criminals

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, has done a public service in making it clear organized crime in America has its foundations in local crime. Racketeers cannot succeed unless they have an interlocking relationship with others.

"Organized crime will collapse," said Mr. Hoover, "if local police go after even the smallest racketeer in every community."

This, of course, is true. And it is precisely here, we believe, that many American newspapers fail to do their full duty.

No racketeer can succeed unless he has the help of some persons in the business and political community. No crooked state politician ever made a deal without the cooperation of some businessman.

Newspapers which do their full duty in assisting and inspiring adequate law enforcement often will encounter opposition from their own communities, from the bench and from municipal and state offices. Recently, for example, a judge was forced to resign after having been revealed as implicated in the protection of law violators. A public prosecutor who accumulated some $300,000 on a salary of $15,000 annually has resigned under pressure. The McClellan committee has exposed the ugly ramifications in many cities.

Here, then, is the greatest newspaper field for public service—supporting federal and local police in their efforts to jail the guilty and break up organized crime at its source.

Miss Bohler Has Won Coveted Scholarship

A good ringing round of applause is in order for Miss Evelyn Barham Bohler, of Griffin, Ga. She has been awarded a Fulbright scholarship which she will use for study in Argentina. Currently a student at Georgia State College for Women, Miss Bohler has done outstanding work and has the personality to match it.

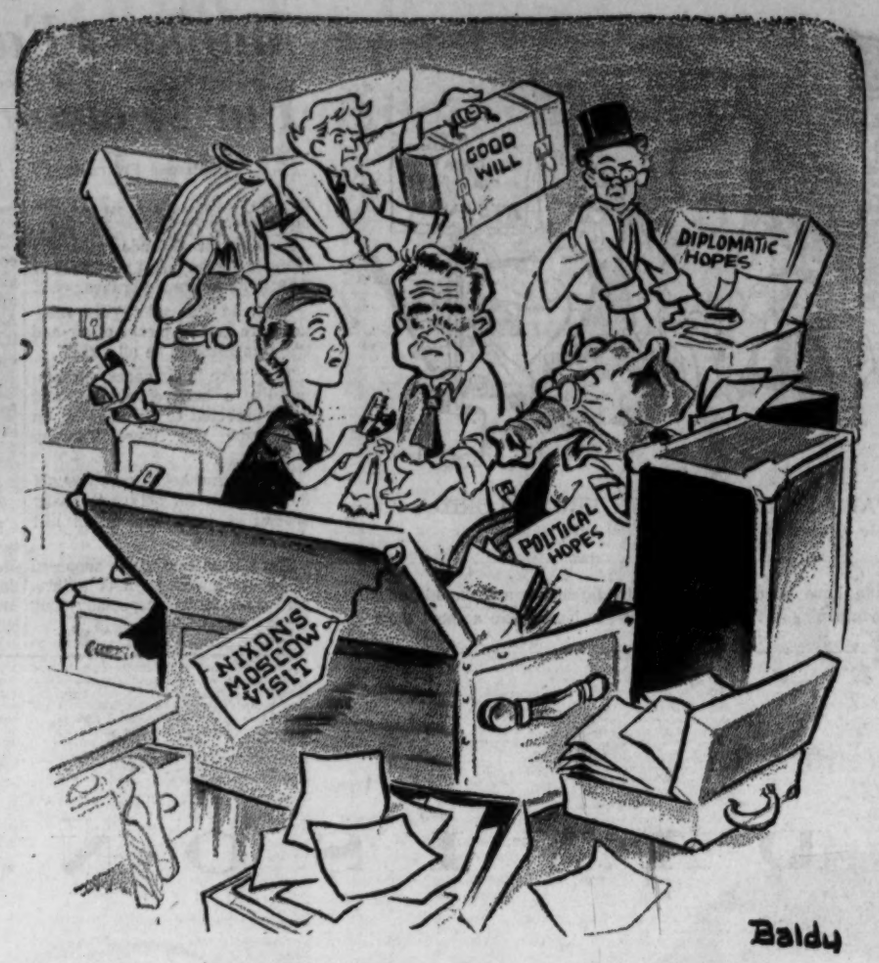

Both these attributes were necessary. Winning a Fulbright scholarship is not easy. Indeed, it is one of the most competitive awards open to students. It is administered by the State Department and there annually are many hundreds of applicants for a relatively small number of scholarships.

The Fulbright money comes from the repayment of debts by foreign countries and is the result of legislation by Sen. Fulbright, of Arkansas.

We congratulate Miss Bohler, her family and teachers.

Many Inequities Suffered by Georgians Laid to Workings of County Unit System

Moultrie — Our problem with Brother Cravey reminds me of a quotation from a speech by Sen. Ben Hill of Troup County during Reconstruction days: "We are suffering for wise and honest legislation. We cannot get such legislation that lobbyists cannot buy.

"The worst possible condition for any people is a body of ignorant and venal legislators under the control of a band of professional lobbyists fed by the same unscrupulous legislators. . . ."

How is it that our people cannot see that those who have gained so much influence in our state government are spawned, developed and grow to full stature under our county unit system?

This system is nothing more than a tool of the machine politician, wherewith elections can most surely be rigged.

Have you noticed after each election how arrogantly the machine goes about its own way regardless of the expressed wishes of the people?

Rivers violated his pledge on the liquor question, Talmadge on the sales tax and Griffin on no increase in taxes.

This iniquitous system has no connection with nor does its operation have any interest in the welfare of the people, whether they live in city counties or country counties. The people of all counties alike have been disfranchised.

Look at the record and you will find that an amazingly small percentage of country counties have given a majority vote to the nominee of the party, except the last time.

This brings to mind our present governor. The machine can't do what it wants to every time. As you say, "Politics is not an exact science."

I am sure the rank and file of the politicians did not want Ernest Vandiver for governor. He is not the type to be used. A kind Providence, however, seems to have directed his election. He has demonstrated his integrity, courage and steadfastness. He will do his best to be a good governor for all the people but those who would use him for their own interests will try to make life miserable for him.

All patriotic Georgians should stick to him like a brother and the best way to help him, I believe, is to draft only men of good character and send them to the House and Senate and pray that nothing will happen to his backbone.

He Warns of Danger In Showing Film

Atlanta—I don't especially like all the things Harold Martin writes but I am really in accord with his thoughts about the movie, "Birth of a Nation."

I have seen it two or three times and it doesn't give one any feeling that should be expressed at this time. It would surely cause trouble to show this picture.

I am a believer in peace. Let's don't throw gasoline on the fire.

John Conner Hailed For Navy Work

Decatur—The Constitution recently had a story about a resolution by the Atlanta City Council praising John L. Conner as "one of the city's first citizens."

I think this recognition is long overdue.

John L. Conner is truly "Mr. Navy," and works at helping the Navy day in and day out.

I agree with Alderman T. Wayne Blanchard who authored the resolution hailing Adm. Conner for devoting himself "unselfishly to the service of his country, the U.S. Navy, with which he has been affiliated for many years, to the state and the city."

'Pagan Trend' Seen In Modern Funerals

Wake Forest, N.C.—On a recent visit to my early home near Culpepper, Va., now owned by strangers, I was a bit grieved at finding the graves of my parents abandoned to the jungle—despite the iron fence around them and the stone marker.

What to do with graves in the jungle? I put that question to an honored neighbor, 92. His reply went far to set me at ease.

He said, "My parents' graves, too, are in the jungle at the old home place near Weldon, N.C., yet it gives me no worry." He added, "I want my body to be treated with respect—at least to be covered with a sheet; beyond that I have no concern about what becomes of it."

I go with him most of the way, if not all. This feeling in us is our inner protest against the pomp and cost of funerals.

For many years I've lifted my voice against the pagan trend in modern funerals with emphasis on the body, not on the soul that lives on. My grave will have no marker but a headplate. I prefer no tears on it, for I won't be there.

Georgia's Beloved Land Has Lost Its Worst Scars

Georgia today is no longer the scarred state of the '20s and '30s. Eroded countryside was once a common sight. Some time in the '30s the big conservation effort began. In a few years the face of Georgia had undergone a remarkable change.

Today you can drive for miles and miles without spotting ugly scars. Land is terraced and drained properly and no longer is fertile land going down the drain.

Today, according to the Agricultural Extension Service, more than 98,000 Georgia farmers are "cooperators" in the soil conservation program.

Last year alone some 3,500 came into the program which is divided into Soil Conservation districts.

State Conservationist Cecil Chapman said waterway development was accomplished last year on 1,900 acres and that soil surveys were completed on 27 million acres.

Some other accomplishments listed in last year's report include: conservation crop rotations, 226,000 acres; pasture planting, 142,000 acres; tree planting, 141,000 acres; farm drainage, 20,000 acres; farm ponds constructed, 1,346 and terracing, 947 miles.

This is the kind of report that makes all who love our state glad.

Through conservation our land, some of the most productive in the nation, will be preserved from generation to generation.

Those people who love and nurture the good earth prosper. Georgians are on the right road.

A Long Count And Headache

In 1958, this nation produced 20 million pounds of acetylsalicylic acid. In layman's language, that is tons of aspirin. In fact, it's 28 billion five-gram tablets or 14 billion headaches. End to end, 28 million aspirins would go around the world eight times. Stacked, they would reach a fourth of the way to the moon. Swallowed, they would rush straight to the blood stream.

And did you know if you could start counting the day you were born and kept right on for 100 years, you could hardly count to a billion! And if you could, what a headache you would have by that time.

Speaking of tablets, Connie Little, behind-the-counter clerk at a corner drugstore nearby, was worried the other day because a woman came in and bought a box of keep-awake tablets and one of go-to-sleep producers at the same time.

Connie said she was afraid the customer would take both kinds at once and go to pieces from the internal struggle.

William S. White

Moderate Course Given Trial Status

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration and the controlling minds in both parties in Congress have taken separate but related decisions of profound importance on civil rights. They expect and intend to go into the 1960 campaign year with only moderate additions to the present civil rights laws.

The now-settled purpose both in the administration and among the controlling bipartisan power groups in Congress is this: Not to seek now—and maybe not even later—further federal legal weapons to force school integration directly on the government's own initiative.

The belief is that the progressive retreat from "massive resistance" in Virginia, the intellectual and traditional leader of the Old South, will make any harsh legislation unnecessary and unwise.

If, however, the reopening of the schools in September produces grave disorders anywhere in the South all bets will be off. In such an event the year 1960, full of presidential politicking as it will be, will produce irresistible demands for "hard" action. These demands will rise notably in Congress but also in the civil rights planks of the two party conventions.

President Eisenhower routinely supports the comparatively middle-road broadening of the civil rights act that has been asked of Congress by his attorney general, William P. Rogers. This the President does, however, without passionate advocacy; actually he remains convinced underneath that persuasion and not law is the answer to racial discrimination.

Mr. Rogers, for his part, has convinced a good many skeptical observers that he really wants a solution of this dilemma more than he wants a strictly campaign issue for the GOP. All the same, though he is willing to wait a while, he is at heart a much stronger believer in legal solutions than the President.

In short, we are entering a summer period of twilight and pause on a severe national problem. If reasonable and moderate men can use this breathing space in fruitful and effective planning to control the immoderates on both sides, it is even conceivable that the 1960 presidential campaign can be fought out without hopelessly inflaming the issue.

The alternative is all too clear—an era of destructive national bitterness and division in a time of rarely matched world peril.

Let's Place Blame Where It Belongs

A young man who was suffering serious mental and spiritual pains visited a psychologist. The psychologist tried to help his patient to discover the cause of his sickness. Bit by bit the psychologist led the young man's thinking along the ways of clearer understanding.

This went on for a considerable period of time. Then one day the patient stormed out of the counselor's office in disgust. He explained to a friend; "Every time I said that such or such a circumstance had thwarted me or that so and so a person had ruined me, the psychologist subtly implied that neither the circumstance nor the other person was to blame. He thinks the trouble is in me. If I thought that was true, I wouldn't have gone to him in the first place!"

Like that sick young man, most of us are also quite unwilling to blame ourselves for what goes wrong. We blame the weather, or the place where we live, or the man for whom we work, or our wives but we can't see that anything is wrong with us.

This is not only the way an individual thinks but it is also the way nations think. Most of us are completely convinced, for instance, that this would be the best of all possible worlds if there were no Russians in it. And I'm sure the Russian leaders think everything would be hunky-dory if there were no Americans. The Russians are, of course, enemies of our way of life, but we've made them scapegoats for every imaginable kind of problem. Sometimes, I'm sure, the trouble with America can be traced neither to our stars nor the Russians, but to ourselves.

This way of thinking also embraces the whole human race. How often we explain our problems by saying, "To err is human" or "Well, we're only human after all." We may even blame God for making us what we are. There was once a man who began his prayer each week at the prayer meeting service with these words: "Dear God, I'm a poor, weak, miserable sinner which you have made."

All of this mind-comforting shifting of responsibility indicates a kind of mental astigmatism. Our perspectives are all wrong. Our sense of judgment is impaired. We console ourselves with the thought that something or someone else is always to blame. But my honest self-criticism proves that this is not so.

May I suggest a way by which we may overcome this kind of thinking.

My suggestion is that every time you are inclined to blame someone else for your misfortune you, first of all, carefully think through your own responsibilities, the mistaken judgments you have accepted, and the worthy choices you have rejected. Nine times out of ten you will be satisfied that you are to blame. We may find with St. Paul that "the evil which I would not, that I do" (Romans (7:19).

Nixon Gets Ready For Soviet Journey

WASHINGTON—Vice President Nixon's mission to Moscow next month is taking on all the aspects of a state visit and some of the aspects of an invasion. Over 60 reporters have already signed up for the trip and once it is widely known that Nixon will probably return home via Siberia, even more are likely to want to go.

Thus what started out as a ceremonial visit to open the U.S. exposition in the Soviet capital is becoming a much more complicated exercise and confronting the vice president with quite a dilemma.

On the one hand, he will be traveling as the representative of President Eisenhower and talking to Prime Minister Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders at a most delicate moment in the negotiations on Germany and nuclear test suspension.

Inevitably, this will impose upon him the restraints of diplomatic negotiation, even if he has not gone there to negotiate. For it is not likely that Khrushchev will wish to limit his conversation to the beauties of the American fair, and the vice president will probably find himself in a kind of U.S.-Soviet summit meeting on the major questions of world politics.

The other side of the dilemma is that the battalion of reporters, accustomed to Nixon's easy conversation on these trips, will be waiting outside the door wanting to know what he said to Khrushchev and vice versa. In short, he will be traveling in the atmosphere of a political campaign while negotiating in the secrecy of the Kremlin, and the combination is likely to be the greatest test of his political skill.

The vice president is well aware of this dilemma and is planning his trip very carefully. He has already started a long series of briefings at the State Department. He and his wife have even started taking Russian lessons every morning, so that he will be able to say a few words in that language when he arrives. And he is now working out a proposed itinerary for the journey.

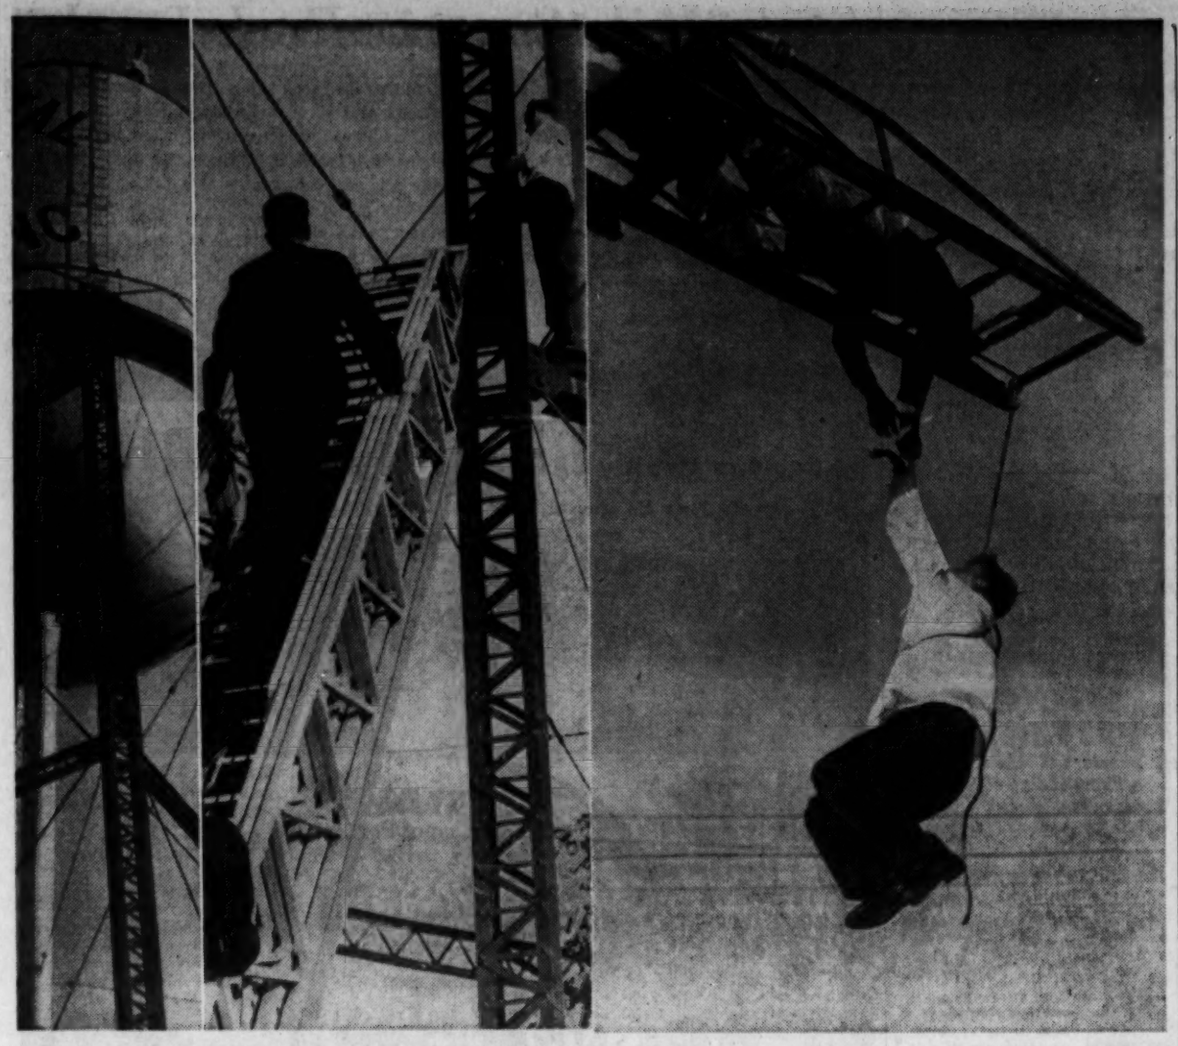

Even this is a complicated operation. Frol Koslov, one of the two deputy premiers of the Soviet Union, is coming to this country to open the Soviet exposition in New York on June 30. He has asked to see President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, and Secretary of State Herter. He has proposed a trip right across the country and has requested permission to accept an invitation to go on a national television program.

The State Department spokesman, Lincoln White, says that so far as he knows the administration was perfectly agreeable to Koslov's suggestions.

Equal time and treatment, however, is the usual procedure in these exchange visits. Accordingly, the administration will ask that Nixon also see the Soviet leaders, that he travel across the Soviet Union en route home, and that he appear on the Soviet television and be accompanied wherever he goes by the reporters in his entourage.

DeKalb Young Republicans Oppose Closing of Schools

DeKalb County's Young Republicans have adopted a resolution opposing the closing of public schools, "for any political or social reasons."

The stand by the club reaffirms "our faith in the American tradition to insure freedom of education by removing our schools and colleges as far as possible from politics and relying upon control by local communities rather than upon control by the federal government."

In supporting the statement, Club President H. J. Klos deplored the threat to the public school system's existence by the "irresponsible demagogues of the Democratic party," and went on to offer support to any candidate, no matter what his party affiliation, whose stand for public education has been shouted down by "irresponsible politicians."

Society Girl to Learn How to Spear Cats

NEW YORK (AP)—A Philadelphia society girl left by plane for Brazil Monday to learn to kill jaguars with a spear.

Stella (Cissy) Reeves, 26, was accompanied by bearded Sasha Siemel, 69, a veteran white hunter in Brazil's Matto Grosso jungle.

He said they would spend about a year there, while he teaches Miss Reeves to spit the big cats with a seven-foot, 10-pound spear, an art he picked up from the Brazilian Indians.

All it takes, he said, is courage and concentration.

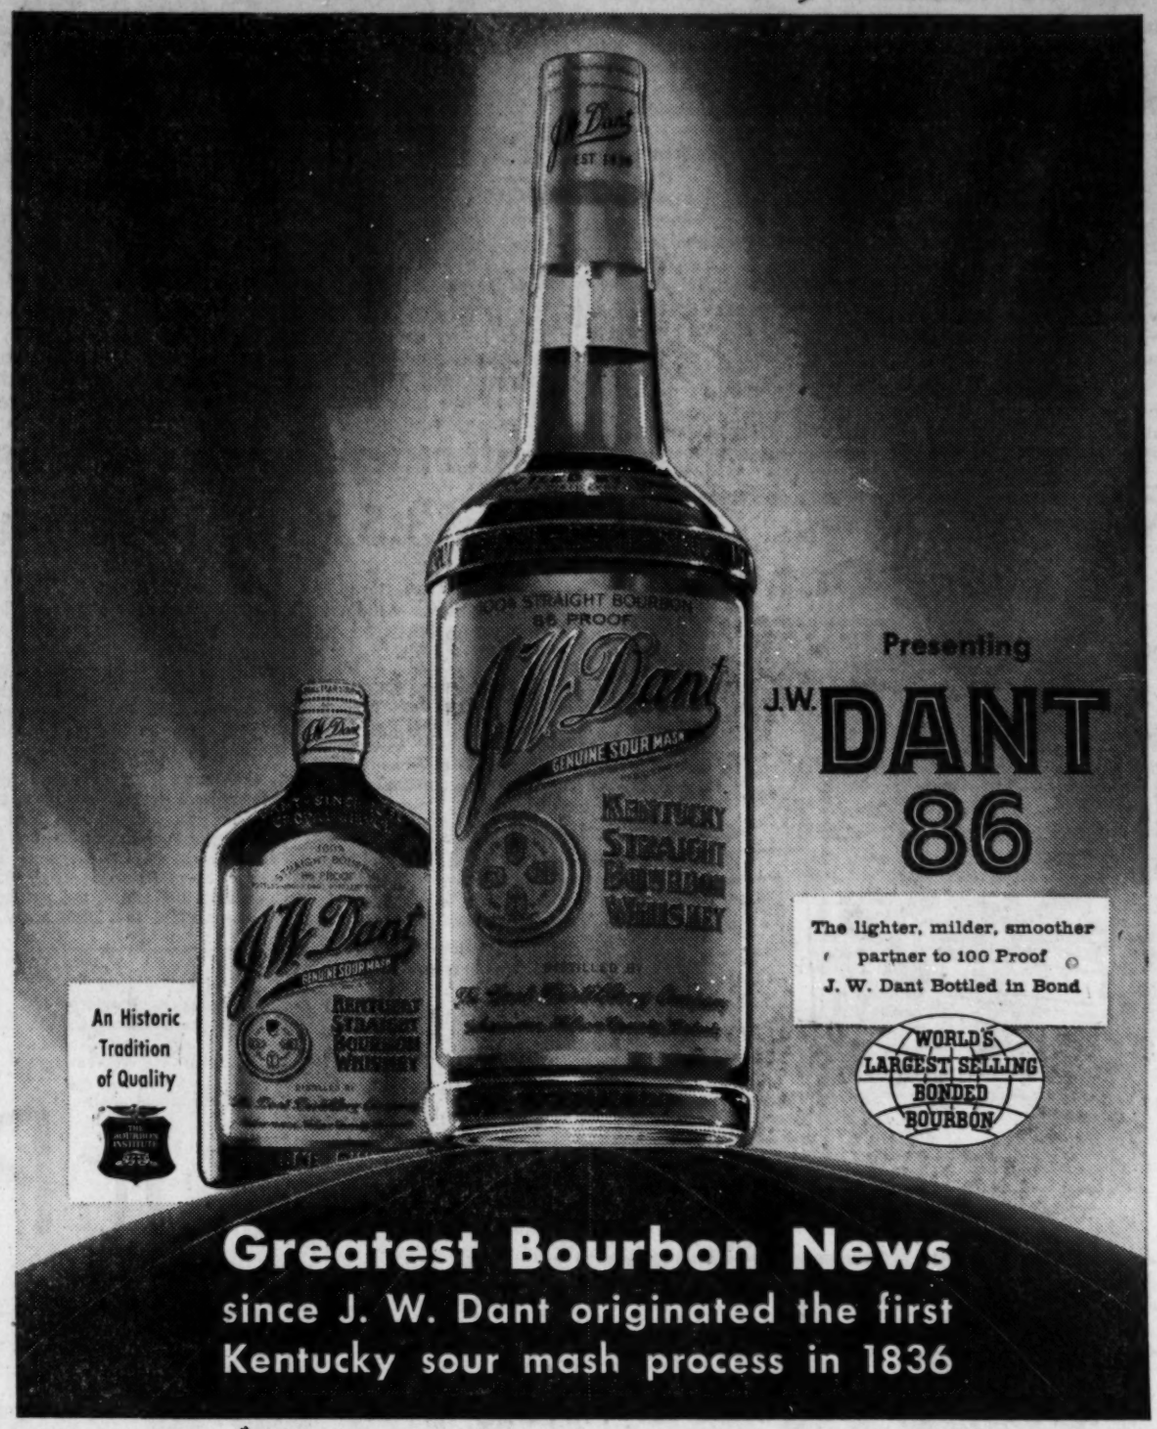

Railway Union Asks Wage Rise

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, last of the five operating brotherhoods to serve wage demands on the nation's railroads, Monday asked for a 14 per cent wage increase.

W. E. Gilbert, international president, said the union also seeks a revised cost-of-living escalator clause, addition of the cost-of-living bonuses to the basic rate and increases in daily rates.

The Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, a 90,000-member union, wants daily earnings to be $26 minimum for engineers in road service, and $23 for firemen in road service.

Gainesville Suit Over Lake Opened

GAINESVILLE (AP)—A $600,000 damage suit brought by the city of Gainesville against the federal government in connection with roads covered by the waters of Lake Lanier opened Monday in U.S. District Court.

Attorney J. Ernest Palmour, representing the city, contended the road system covered by the lake "existed and is needed to avoid traffic congestion and promote the welfare of the citizens."

He asserted that the government should make adequtae payment for replacement of the streets.

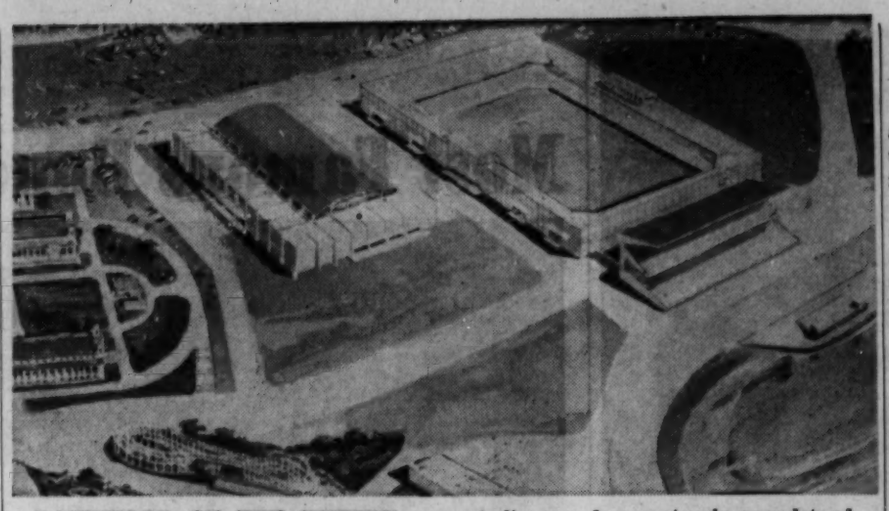

The government contended the city could not prove the roads actually were needed and that they were not heavily used prior to formation of the lake by the dam at Buford.

In such a case, government attorneys asserted, only nominal compensation was required.

The case is expected to end late Tuesday.

The Gainesville city commission recently adopted a resolution pledging that any money recovered would be used in the construction of roads in the area.

Last year a similar suit for $2,700,000 brought by Hall County resulted in a $1,750,000 judgment.

Aldermen Approve Plans For $3.5 Million Viaduct

Approval of plans for the 3,300-foot-long, $3.5 million dollar Techwood viaduct across the downtown railway chasm featured a meeting of Atlanta aldermen Monday.

Alderman Jesse Draper offered the final draft of the project. Robert & Co. Associates prepared the studies, and City Construction Chief Ray Nixon has predicted that contracts probably can be let by Oct. 1.

The aldermen also:

1. Ordered heads of departments to survey fee and permit charges and to recommend by July 1 any revisions needed.

2. Invited the Citizens Crime Committee to meet with the aldermen July 6.

3. Confirmed nomination of C. Ort Jenkins, of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Robert F. Adamson of the Citizens & Southern National Bank, to succeed Lt. Gen Alvan C. Gillem Jr., USA (ret.) and D. W. Lyon on the traffic and transportation committee.

4. Ordered filing of vetoes by Mayor Hartsfield to ban parking on Piedmont avenue from Monroe drive to Morningside drive and the change the name of a stretch of Riverside Crescent, NW, from the end of the paving at Lowe street to Claude street.

State Jails Contain Peak Load

SAVANNAH (AP)—Georgia's state and county prisons are jammed to the rafters with almost 10,000 inmates, an all-time high.

And "jammed to the rafters" can be taken in the literal sense, according to J. B. Hatchett of Atlanta, assistant director of the State Board of Corrections.

Hatchett, attending the 20th annual convention of the Georgia Prison Wardens Assn., said here Monday many prisons have resorted to double-bunking of cells to accommodate the prisoners for whom no rooms was planned. Numerous institutions were designed for only floor bunks but they now have an equal number in overhead tiers near the ceiling, Hatchett said.

As of May 31 there were 9,948 men and women in the state prison systems, following a sharp increase in recent months, Hatchett said.

But in spite of the overcrowding problem, things have been relatively quiet in the state prison system during the past year, according to W. D. Goff of Cordele, president of the association.

Shrimpers Peril Bathers At Jekyll, Fortson Says

Action to Be Taken Against Boats Dragging Nets in Beach Areas

Secretary of State Ben Fortson Monday declared shrimp boats were presenting a "health hazard and a safety hazard" to bathers at Jekyll Island.

Fortson, who is also chairman of the Jekyll Island Authority, said he will take whatever action is necessary to move shrimpers further out from the beach.

Shrimp boats are dragging nets through the swimming areas, Fortson asserted.

"Some one is going to be drowned," he said.

DEBRIS STIRRED UP

"Last week we took tons of debris off the beach," Fortson added. He said the debris was stirred up by the nets of shrimpers.

Fortson said his first step would be to request the aid of Fulton Lovell, director of the Game and Fish department.

Other members of the authority said there were additional steps which could be taken if Lovell did not have the authority to control the boats.

In other business Monday, the authority approved an option for Jekyll's fifth white motel.

192 UNITS PLANNED

The proposed motel would consist of 192 units on a 1,000-foot beachfront segment south of the Corsair Motel.

Promoters J. H. Boatwright and L. W. Smith Jr. agreed to put up $500 for an option on the property.

The promoters outlined plans to build 96 units facing the beach first and 96 units nearer Beachview drive later. Plans include central buildings for a restaurant, dining room and other such facilities.

The first section would cost about $500,000.

There are at present two operating motels on Jekyll, the Wanderer and the Jekyll Estates. A third, the Corsair, will open this summer. A group headed by Sims Garrett has an option for fourth.

NEGRO MOTEL GOING

A Negro motel, the St. Andrews Beach Club, is under construction at the south end of the island.

Fortson also announced that regular users of the toll bridge to Brunswick now are able to buy $75 books of tickets, bringing the round-trip price down from $1 to 25 cents.

C of C Plans Courses In Practical Politics

A series of nine week-long "action courses in practical politics" will be launched in September by the board of directors of Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

C of C officials said the workshops will be conducted on a nonpartisan basis with the objective of producing more effective participation by business and professional men in political activities.

The program "is not designed to get involved in partisan politics," a chamber spokesman said, but is based rather on the premise "that an informed, intelligent citizenry will insist on sound legislation that benefits the nation as a whole."

The first workshop in early September will be limited to 20 participants from 20 different Atlanta area companies, it was explained. At the conclusion of the course, each participant will return to his parent firm and serve as coordinator for a similar course within his organization.

The program will be administered, a C of C official said, by a "special action committee made up of some 25 Atlanta executives who are believers in this program."

The nine different topics to be covered during the workshop are:

The Individual in Politics. Political Party Organization. The Political Precinct. The Political Campaign. Political Clubs. The Political Leader's Problems. Political Meetings. Businessmen in Politics. The Politicians Speak.

The ninth week of the workshop will embrace discussions of "practical politics" by local, county and state political leaders.

Board of Education Purges Yearbook

TRURO, N.S. (AP) — Students at Central Colchester High School dedicated their year book to Gordon T. Hagen, a former principal at the school. The Municipal School Board ordered the books withdrawn and the dedication page removed.

Hagen resigned last year after a row with the board over the dismissal of four teachers. He had supported the teachers in their contention that they had been dismissed unfairly.

4 Suspected Burglars Arrested in Crackdown

Four burglary suspects were arrested Monday as police continued a crackdown on early morning prowlers.

Two, chased down with bloodhounds after abandoning an allegedly stolen auto during a police chase, were identified as Robert Lamar Sanders, 31, of Columbus, and Raymond Wilson, 30, of an Atlanta hotel.

Patrolmen G. D. Adams and B. L. Calhoun said the two admitted stealing the auto a short time before the vehicle was observed by police on Southland circle, near Chattahoochee avenue, NW.

The two abandoned the car after a brief chase, patrolmen said. Bloodhounds furnished by the Hapeville Police Department chased the two from a wooded area onto Chattahoochee avenue where they were apprehended, officers said.

Detectives L. W. Cook and L. S. West said they found tools similar to those used in burglaries in the auto. They added the owner of the car said the tools were not in the machine before it was stolen.

Two youths, one 16 and the other 17, were arrested following a burglary at a service station at 563 University Ave., SW, Lt. I. A. Thomas said. The older youth, listed as James Walter Starnes, of a Washington street, SW, address, was held at city jail, Thomas said, and the 16-year-old was sent to the juvenile home.

YOU CAN LEARN HOW TO COMBAT BALDNESS

EXAMINATION: A skilled Thomas expert knows how to recognize and treat the 14 local causes of hair loss.

TREATMENT is directed to the specific needs of each person — backed by The Thomas' 38-years of experience.

MASSAGE: Manual, mechanical, and electrical means are used to help bring nourishing blood to the scalp.

This is a message directed to men who are worrying about thinning hair. You who have noticed your combs and brushes filled with loose hair each morning; who look in the mirror and see the hair line creeping up at the temples, or a thin spot getting bigger on the crown. We are going to tell you how you can learn — in just 45 minutes — how to combat baldness — and why baldness can be prevented in many cases.

Perhaps you've been told that nothing can be done to check thinning hair. Or maybe you've thought that baldness is inherited — if you "are going to get bald, you are going to get bald." On the other hand, like many thinking men, maybe you've concluded that there is abundance of nonsense about hair loss — and a minimum of common sense.

Nonsense vs. Common Sense

What is nonsense and what is common sense about the baldness problem? Figure it out for yourself. You were born with the scalp structure that grew a good head of hair for you for many years. This means two things (1) you still have the necessary structure for continuing the growth of hair and (2) you didn't "inherit baldness." Actually, the hair follicles (sources of hair growth) remain "alive" in your scalp, ready, willing, and able to grow hair in most cases, as long as you live. (Exceptions: scar tissue damage, and follicular occlusion, due to certain diseases — rare.)

What happens — why does you hair start to thin? Your hair goes through a definite "growing" cycle. Each hair is "born" on the inside of the follicle, pushes through to the scalp surface, grows to mature length and then falls out. This process takes about a year. In fact, each four years you have a completely new head of hair. You can see, then, that it is NOT the hair that fall out that cause baldness — it's the hair that fails to replace it! Thinning hair starts when the falling rate exceeds the growing rate. Your scalp needs help so it can replace the hair which falls out. You need to apply common sense methods of hair and scalp care and treatment if you are to help your scalp replace the hair which falls.

Hair WANTS to Grow!

Your hair really WANTS to grow — but local conditions, in many cases, are keeping it from growing. There are fourteen fairly common local causes of thinning hair — some of which are symptomatically recognized by everyone as dry dandruff, oily dandruff, itchy scalp, etc. A Thomas expert, backed by The Thomas' 38 years of experience — KNOWS how to recognize and effectively treat these fourteen conditions — and thus help your scalp do what it wants to do — grow better hair.

Thomas treats the local causes of hair loss with common sense methods. The scalp is hygienically cleansed of all local infection and foreign debris — dandruff is removed and scalp itch relieved. Various mechanical, manual, and electrical therapeutic agents are used to bring nourishing blood to the hair follicle so the dormant hair can push through and replace the hair which has been shed. Thomas treatment incorporates a combination of thermogenic stimulating, cleansing and germ-killing techniques, unequaled in this field.

Free Consultation — Trial Treatment Only $2

In 45 minutes — and for only $2 — you can learn how to combat baldness the Thomas way. Here's what you do. Come to a Thomas office today — no appointment is required. Just say, "I want to see about my hair," and a skilled Thomas expert will examine your scalp and tell you exactly what can be done to help you. If you do not come within the scope of Thomas treatment — you'll be told immediately. There is no charge for the consultation or scalp examination. You may then take one full length Thomas treatment for only $2 — so you can see yourself exactly what this famous treatment is, how it works, and how it can help you to combat hairloss and have a better head of hair. Consultation is in private — come in today.

President May Take His Program Over Congress' Head to the People

gram and a plan that will pass it. We welcome any constructive and non-political support he cares to give it."

The same criticism of the President voiced by Sen. Johnson was directed earlier Monday by Sen. Mansfield, the assistant majority leader, at the Democratic advisory committee. The committee complained Sunday that the Democratic leadership in Congress had compromised important legislative issues to avoid Presidential vetoes.

In a prepared statement Mansfield suggested that the advisory group wait until the game was over instead of adding up the score on the party's congressional record "at the end of the fifth inning."

Morton suggested appearances by the President in several politically critical areas of the country to win support for his legislative program in addition to addresses by radio and television from the White House. The Senator said this also was under consideration by the President.

President Eisenhower is winning public support in his campaign to achieve a balanced federal budget by holding down congressional spending proposals, according to the Republican chairman. The campaign already is having an effect on the Democrat-controlled Congress, he said.

handle the knotty urban renewal program.

5. Extended until Aug. 1, the deadline for owners of three or more rental units to register their properties with the urban renewal office at the city hall.

The value of the completed renewal of the 170 acres in the Butler area will be upwards of $100 million. The program calls for rebuilding most of the area to rid Atlanta of some of its worst slums, to extend the downtown business development to the expressway, to rehabilitate the Auburn avenue commercial area, and provide close-in homes for hundreds of families.

The Butler area project is bisected by the downtown expressway connector. One sector is bounded on the west by Courtland street and extends eastward to the connector and southward to Auburn avenue. The other is bounded on the west by the expressway connector and extends eastward to Jackson street and Boulevard and lies just north of Cain street and extends southward to Decatur street.

Acquisition and site preparation of land for the Bulter project will exceed the sale price of the land by $6,680,000, according to estimates. The city is expecting to pay $2,226,000 of the loss in cash and in providing improvements and servicse, will cash payments set at $982,167, it is said.

The Washington-Rawson project contains 177 acres. The project lies roughly south of the Central of Georgia railway tracks and extends southward to Georgia avenue and is bounded on the west by the southern railway tracks and ends just east of Capital avenue.

The Thomasville project contains some 259 acres and lies south of the federal prison in the southern railway area of the city. It will be utilized to rehouse persons displaced in renewal and other governmental functions.

Moth Invasion Here Poses No Early Threat to Trees

els under such aliases as measuring worm, spanworm, tailor worm and looper—is the cuprit that will gnaw away, according to Dr. Lund, on "practically any kind of broad-leaf tree."

If the linden moths have laid any eggs in Atlanta, during what is one of their extremely rare visits here, then it probably won't be known for sure until next spring.

"They'll hatch out in the early spring next year," said C. M. Scott of the Georgia Department of Entomology. "That's the time you can get your best control, by spraying them then."

In Athens, Dr. Lund expressed surprise that the snow-white moths had zeroed in on Atlanta. Only a few years ago they were not known any further south than Maryland.

The duration of the moth invasion here, Dr. Lund estimated, will be "just a matter of two or three days. Then they'll probably be gone, maybe moving on farther South."

"The greatest infestation of the moths right now," he said, "has been reported in north Georgia up around Dahlonega and Blairsville."

Reports are that the moths' larvae — the inchworms — are "severely defoliating the trees," Lund said, "especially damaging the hickories and oaks in north Georgia."

The body of the inchworm is black, said Lund, except for "the last two segments which are red. The eggs are laid on the sides of branches in little masses that have a kind of circular ridge on top."

The little white moths invaded the greensward of the State Capitol Monday. "You could shake the shrubs and they'd just fall out," said Entomologist Scott.

The moths weren't getting too far in state government circles, however. Hundreds of them were being placed on the dinner menus of black-winged starlings swooping down from the tops of Capitol trees.

He told police his parents were separated, and he lived with his father in the Bronx while his mother lived in Manhattan.

The gun with which Banuchi was slain, a sawed-off "hair-trigger" .22 caliber rifle, was believed to have figured also in the wounding of another Puerto Rican youth Sunday night.

Juan Gonzalez, 16, told police he was shot in the leg as he came out of the apartment house where he lives. But police believe the gun had been handed to him and it went off accidentally. The gun still is missing.

The Banuchi killing is believed to have grown out of the shooting 10 days ago of Earl "China Boy" Mack, a 15-year-old Negro, who died in a hospital Sunday. He was a member of the "Dragons" gang. Two other youths are being held in that case.

—a visit to RUSSIA this year!

Hundreds of thousands of Americans will be visiting Europe this summer. If you plan to be among them, you may be interested to know that American Express, in cooperation with Intourist, official travel organization of U.S.S.R., has arranged a wide selection of European extension trips to Russia.

These escorted and independent tours include not only the American National Exhibition in Sokolniki Park, Moscow . . . but the special highlights and attractions of Kiev . . . Leningrad . . . Stalingrad . . . Samarkand . . . Tashkent . . . and other places as well.

As in principal cities throughout the world, an American Express office in Moscow is prepared to look after your sightseeing, transportation, car rental and theater reservations . . . your hotel and resort accommodations.

Make your arrangements in advance at any American Express office or ask your Travel Agent.

American National Exhibition in Moscow's Sokolniki Park.

This exhibition, capsuling our way of life, is being built by American private industry in cooperation with the United States Government. It will be formally opened by Vice President Nixon in July.

Judge Puts Long Back In Hospital

sorry he couldn't give the decision Monday but "that is impossible."

Sen. Russell Long (D-La), the governor's nephew and the late Huey P. Long's son, disagreed with Judge Godard's decision.

"It seems to me a very crucial point has been overlooked," he said.

Sen. Long refused to elaborate, saying with a smile: "I didn't come here for publicity."

But, Sen. Long's appearance at the hearing and his conference with judge and attorneys had obvious political implications, heightened by Sen. Long's pending decision on running for Louisiana governor.

Gov. Long recognized these implications during idle chatter in the courtroom. He looked up at his nephew and said:

"How much will you charge to run?"

As he did when Gov. Long said something emphatically earlier to him, Sen. Long didn't reply.

The governor—who acted quietly compared to many of his roaring appearances in the Louisiana Legislature—said nothing at all in the courtroom after the ruling calling for a week's further detention. He put on his hat calmly and walked to his car.

PETITION CLAIMS FORCE

His habeas corpus petition claimed he was removed by force from his executive mansion in Baton Rouge, La., May 30. Most people expected Gov. Long, noted for his argumentative outbursts, to seize this occasion for some verbal blasting. But, instead, he told Judge Godard:

"I believe it would be better if I didn't testify. I sometimes get a little excited."

Should Godard rule Long is being held against his will, Long might go free. But reliable informants told the Associated Press members of the Long family have the stage set for possible commitment of the governor in Louisiana's East Baton Rouge Parish (ounty).

Long, according to the same sources, has been trying to reach Louisiana Supt. of Police John Nick Brown to have a hand-picked guard of troopers to prevent Long's seizure when—and if—he returns to Louisiana.

INTERRUPTS PROCEEDINGS

As has been his penchant for years, Gov. Long frequently interrupted proceedings time after time with comments and questions.

Even two direct requests from the bench for a halt to such outbursts failed to faze the embattled governor. Frequently his sallies brought laughter.

He called his cousin, Dr. Arthur Long, a horse doctor and a loan agent. He called the mental hospital orderlies who carried him from his Louisiana State mansion to a plane bound for Galveston last May 30 bone crushers. He called himself governor-in-exile.

Putting All It Can in Schools, State Declares from Arthur Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, that public investment in public schools be doubled within the next five or ten years.

Purcell told the subcommittee that it would be "wholly unrealistic" to expect Georgia to substantially increase its school appropriations in the next four years.

He pointed out that the present state administration was elected on an economy platform and said there appears to be increased resistance to more taxes now for schools or other state services.

IN THIS WEEK'S POST

Are De Gaulle's days numbered?

Not since Napoleon have the French people put so much power—and hope—in the hands of one man. How is General Charles de Gaulle faring in his crusade to save France?

In this week's Saturday Evening Post you'll read a frank, fascinating report on De Gaulle's first year as president of France, and you'll learn:

- how he's lost a million disillusioned supporters to the Communists in the past year.
- why his efforts to stop the Algerian war have been a dismal failure.
- how his "grandeur"—which so often annoyed Roosevelt and Churchill—still angers his allies.
- why he has no friends, no cronies, no advisers that he can ask for help.

Here's the tragic story of a man who must succeed—because his country has no one else to turn to! Read "Loneliest Man in France."

"I must destroy Patterson"

When Ingemar Johansson steps into the ring with Floyd Patterson next week, he'll carry the hopes of all Europe with him. What are his chances? In this exciting interview you'll learn about the one time he was knocked down in a fight. Why he was disqualified from the 1952 Olympics for "not trying." What he really thinks of Patterson.

Is 65 too young to retire?

One "retired" professor took a job doing research for a pharmaceutical house—and discovered aureomycin. Another "old-timer" started a new business—and earned himself a fortune! Read how folks over 65 are beating the "retirement blues."

ALSO: Bomb scares and bayonets in "The Untold Story of Little Rock"—written by Virgil T. Blossom, ex-Superintendent of Little Rock Schools.

It's a wonderful week in the Post . . . 7 articles, 4 stories, 2 serials, many cartoons and exciting photographs.

Renewal Okayed at East Point

East Point's City Council tentatively approved plans for the city's Washington avenue Urban Renewal program Monday night.

Estimated cost of the 221-acre project which is composed 90 per cent of Negro dwellers, mostly tenants, is $2,000,000.

Mayor Johnny Stith said that final stages of appraisal are now under way. He said that actual work on the project will probably begin in 12 to 14 months.

Sen. Herman Talmadge recently notified the city of approval of special FHA mortgage insurance to finance 250 low-cost private housing units for the development.

Moonshine Raids Net 300 Gallons

Fulton County Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes' vice squad confiscated and destroyed more than 300 gallons of illegal liquor in a series of raids over the weekend, the sheriff said Monday.

Largest catch was a truck on Thurmond St., NW, which contained 197 gallons of moonshine in cans, the sheriff reported.

Next largest was a cache of 90 gallons in jars behind a house on English avenue, NW.

Smaller amounts averaging about five gallons were found in other raids.

Lot Yields 'Shine, Soap for Policemen

There was plenty of soap on hand at police headquarters Monday.

Searching a vacant lot in the 900 block of Fern street, SE, Patrolmen F. E. Kennedy and A. L. Ellsberry found a case of expensive face soap hidden in a patch of weeds.

They also discovered 33½ gallons of moonshine whisky in a cache nearby.

Patrolmen brought the moonshine to headquarters, where it was counted and confiscated. They also brought the soap. It will be used.

Light Meter Cache Gives Real Charge

One light meter contained more One light meter contained more than kilowatt readings.

A family on Stonewall street, SW, observed a man puttering about the light meter. They called police.

Patrolman A. E. KcKinnon said the man wasn't reading the meter he was depositing two half gallons of moonshine whisky there. The whisky was confiscated.

Souped-Up Flying Hercules Reports for Air Force Duty

By WARREN BOSWORTH
Constitution Staff Writer

SEWART AFB, Tenn.—Lockheed's new C130 "B" Hercules, the most powerful transport in the U.S. Air Force's history, went on duty Monday with the Tactical Air Command's 839th Air Division at Sewart AFB in Tennessee.

The huge plane was formally presented to the Air Force by A. C. Kotchian, vice president and general manager of Lockheed's Georgia Division at Marietta.

Maj. Gen. D. W. Hutcheson, commander of the 9th Air Force, dedicated the new model Hercules into Air Force service.

Immediately following the dedication ceremonies, Maj Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, commander of the 101st Airborne Division, led a detachment of Army and Air Force paratroopers in a "drop" exercise at Fort Campbell, Kentucky.

The new model Hercules can carry 11,000 more pounds than the "A" model and it can travel approximately 1,000 miles farther.

The "B" model is capable of airlifting missiles, men and supplies 4,000 miles nonstop and landing in remote sections of the world. The plane costs about $2½ million.

Telephone Pioneers Launch Rally Here

State officers from nine southeastern states began the annual three-day planning conference of the Telephone Pioneers of America, in Atlanta Monday with speeches by two Southern Bell Telephone Co. executives.

Speaking to the 27 officers were Ben S. Gilmer, president of Southern Bell and Harvey G. Booth, public relations vice president.

Miss Mae Bertheaud of New Orleans, vice president of the Pioneers organization, which is composed of people in the telephone business for 21 years or more, is presiding over the conference and Earl B. Dodds, national secretary from New York, is participating.

State Dept. Denies Laos Aid Bungling

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN

(Copyright, 1959, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower Administration Monday answered congressional critics of its aid program in Laos.

The Department of State and the International Cooperation Agency issued jointly a 45-page rebuttal of grave criticisms made by the House Committee on Government Operations. Allegations of bribery, maladministration and failures were described by the two executive agencies as either untrue or exaggerated.

In a separate statement, the State department denied the House committee's statement that Deputy Assistant Secretary of State J. Graham Parsons, then the U.S. ambassador in Laos, had helped "railroad" an ICA auditor out of the small Southeast Asia country. The committee said the auditor, Haynes Miller, had been removed from his post because he was "close to discovering mismanagement, bribes and the virtual monopoly of one company on U.S. aid construction projects in Laos.

Parsons denied he had influenced Miller's removal from Laos.

Parsons also noted that he had written twice to Congressman Hardy (D-Va), chairman of the Foreign Operations and Monetary Affairs subcommittee, offering to testify on the matter. He was not called to appear before the committee and his letters were not answered, the State department said.

Lincoln White, State department spokesman, said Parsons enjoyed the "highest confidence" of the department.

In their defense against the criticisms, the State department and ICA admitted there were "shortcomings" and "deficiencies" in the aid program in Laos. However, the major objectives had been and are being achieved "with signal success."

The objectives were defined as bring help to Laos (1) prevent the Communists from taking control, (2) strengthen its ties with the non-Communist world, and (3) develop and maintain "a stable and independent government."

Bomb Test Radio Blow Is Disclosed

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—Two hydrogen bombs exploded high over the Pacific last summer disrupted radio communications for thousands of miles, beclouded radar sets and partly blinded rabbits more than 300 miles away.

This was disclosed Monday in a joint scientific report released by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department describing the results of two high-altitude nuclear explosions conducted over Johnston Island last July and August.

MANIFOLD EFFECTS

From the report it was clear that large nuclear explosions at altitudes of around 40 miles produce manifold effects—both in light displays and electromagnetic disturbances—which make their detection relatively easy, even from the ground.

The report also clearly indicates that hydrogen bombs exploded in the stratosphere could prove to be a valuable method for disrupting radio communications and radar warning systems in advance of an enemy missile or bomber attack.

The explosions, both of which had a force measured in millions of tons of TNT (or megatons), were conducted to obtain information of the effects of nuclear detonations at high altitudes. The first shot, named Teak, was fired on July 21 at an altitude "in excess of 200,000 feet." The second shot, named Orange, was detonated at an altitude of about 100,000 feet on Aug. 11.

FIRST IN STRATOSPHERE

The nuclear warheads, carried aloft by Redstone missiles, were the first megaton devices ever detonated in the stratosphere by the United States. In terms of their visible effects, the report said, the two explosions "were by far the most spectacular shots ever fired by the United States."

The two shots were exploded at a lower altitude than the Project Argus explosions conducted over the South Atlantic in September. They had a much greater force than the Project Argus explosions, however, and their effect on the ionosphere was much more pronounced.

Birmingham Negroes Urge Own Race Help Curb Killing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A Negro organization Monday attacked what it called "self-styled Negro ministers" who substitute social doctrines for the Gospel.

Samuel H. Moore, president of the Birmingham chapter of the Southern Negro Improvement Assn. of Alabama, released a resolution urging Negroes to help curb the increasing slayings in Jefferson County (Birmingham).

"We have never read in the Ten Commandments in any part where it said thou shall not segregate, but we have read a commandment saying thou shalt not kill," the resolution said.

The organization, claiming to represent 15,000 Negroes, criticized "self-styled Negro ministers abandoning the Gospel and substituting integration and other social doctrines."

Moore declared that "agitators are substituting political issues for religious doctrines."

The resolution said:

"We appeal to the solicitor (prosecutor) and his staff to prosecute these cases more vigorously and demand the electric chair for a Negro when he is charged with murdering another."

Atlanta Matron Hurt Jumping To Avoid Car

Mrs. Luna Thelma Jarrett, 49, of 178 Georgia Ave., SE, suffered facial injuries Monday when she tripped and fell after jumping to avoid being hit by a car, Patrolman F. W. Johnson and T. S. Duffey reported.

She was treated at Grady Hospital. Police said Mrs. Jarrett was crossing in front of 58 Peachtree St., NE when she saw a car bearing down on her.

Million Is Granted For Bartow Renewal

A federal loan of $538,944 and a capital grant of $417,294 for a Cartersville, Ga., urban renewal project were approved Monday.

The Urban Renewal Administration in Washington said the money will be used to redevelop Cartersville's 49-acre Summer Hills, a blighted residential area one-half mile northwest of the central business district.

The area now contains 143 dwelling units, most of which are substandard, and 122 families who will be offered relocation elsewhere.

Car Crushes, Kills

A 63-year-old Cusseta man Monday was thrown from the car he was driving and crushed to death when it turned over on him, the State Patrol said. The man, Walter A. L. Williams of Rte. 1, Cusseta, was killed instantly a half mile west of Weston in Webster County.

2 Plucked from Sea

Two fishermen swam around in the Atlantic for more than an hour Monday after hightide caught them on a sandbar just off the tip of Jekyll Island. Brunswick policeman I. L. McLeod bobbed over the submerged sand bar for more than an hour.

The other rescued fisherman, S. L. Crews, 32, Brunswick appliance salesman, tried swimming to overtake their rowboat, which was swept away by the tide.

Dr. Edwin King Jr. of Valdosta Monday was named Georgia's veterinarian of the year as the Georgia Veterinary Medical Assn. opened its convention on Jekyll Island.

Jumps to Death

A pregnant young Cumming housewife died after leaping from her husband's moving car, police said. Mrs. Dorothy McAfee Adams, screamed, "I'm going to jump," and her husband said he was powerless to stop her.

Airport Aid Bill Passes In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Monday passed 71-11 a bill continuing the present program of federal airports grants for two more years. Democrats who had talked of an expanded program cried that they had been forced to surrender "with a loaded veto pen at our heads."

The bill, which now goes to the House, extends the present airport law until June 30, 1961, and continues the present grant rate of 63 million dollars a year.

This represents a big retreat from either the 465-million-dollar bill originally passed by the Senate or the House's 297-milion-dollar measure. Both of those called for four-year extensions.

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla), author of the original Senate airport bill and also of the stopgap, said he offered the new proposal with great reluctance but that "half a loaf is better than none."

He pointed out that the present law expires June 30 and said the two-year extension would take it five months into the administration of the new president elected next year.

Tourists' Dress Eyed at Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's Swiss guard and police have new orders to watch for improperly dressed tourists, Vatican circles said Monday.

The Vatican long has barred women in sleeveless, low-cut summer dresses.

The new order, it is understood, is a reminder the summer tourist season demands greater vigilance.

Georgia Invested $55 Million In 1959 High School Grads

Georgia has an investment of approximately 55 million dollars in the 30,000 graduates of the state's public high schools this year.

That, according to State Department of Education figures, is based on the per pupil cost of public school education in Georgia over the past 12 years.

And it represents only the spending for those pupils who completed 12 grades, and does not include the per capita outlays each year for pupils who dropped out of school somewhere between the first and 12th grades.

In the 1947-48 school year, when most of the current graduates entered the first grade, Georgia was spending an average of $102.15 per pupil on public education.

For the 1958-59 year, the amount had climbed to $210. Thus the state has spent an average of $1,849.83 each to educate this year's graduates.

The education department also reports that the national average of per pupil spending for public school education is $320.

The 1959 graduating class represents only 45 per cent of the 67,785 babies born in Georgia 18 years ago. The state's birth rate has increased sharply since then, reaching a peak of 102,643 in 1956. The State Health department reports slight declines in the birth rate in 1957 and 1958.

Georgia's public school holding power likewise has been increasing.

The birth rate increase over the past 10 years has averaged about 1,000 a year. The increase in public school attendance has ranged from 9,000 to 34,000 a year during that time.

And the number of high school graduates has climbed in 12 years from 18,153 to the approximately 30,000 figure this year.

Accept God And All Past Is Canceled

QUESTION: I am a teen-age high schooler. I just learned that I am the child of unmarried parents, and I am almost desperate with grief. I wish I were dead. Do you think it's such a terrible thing for me to be such a child?—B. L.

Your parents have not given you the start you should have. But you should not feel so terribly about it. The wrong was theirs and not yours. God will never hold such a thing against you, and you don't need to tell people about it.

One of the miracles about becoming a Christian is that no part of our past is held against us. God not only forgives the sins of our lives, but He completely forgets every one of them. When He accepts you into the family, he makes a new person out of you, and none of the things that now seem so important are carried over.

All God wants from you now is your complete reliance upon the merit of His son to save you, and your utter abandonment to His will. The change is as complete as if you had died and then been raised again. That is what the Bible means when it says, "We were buried therefore with Him by Baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of God the father, so we also might walk in newness of life." (Romans 6:4)

Georgians Help Hike Vets' Pay

House Approves Act for Disabled

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Georgia Congressmen Monday supported a bill that passed the House, 226-34, to liberalize pensions for disabled war veterans on a basis of need.

Erwin Mitchell

The bill affects only veterans with non-service connected disabilities and their dependents, widows and orphans.

There was no roll call and the bill was passed by standing vote.

Rep. Erwin Mitchell of Dalton, a member of the House Veterans' Affairs committee, which wrote the legislation, hailed it as one to "give the greatest amount of pension to those with the greatest need."

The bill sets up a new graduated scale of pension payments based on income, which is the principle favored by veterans organizations, including the Amvets, headed by Dr. Winston E. Burdine of Atlanta.

Under the graduated scale, payments would be keyed to the amount of income of a disabled veteran and the number of his dependents. For example, a single veteran, with little or no income, could get up to $85 a month, or as little as $40 a month if he had an income of $1,800 a year.

No veteran or widow now receiving a pension will sustain a pension reduction as a result of the bill enacted.

Mitchell said its enactment would mean that 70 per cent of the veterans, widows and children now receiving pension benefits will be eligible for increased payment, and that more than 205,000 widows of deceased veterans will be able to qualify for pensions.

Opponents of the bill attacked it on the grounds that it will cost the federal treasury an additional $308 million a year.

Milledgeville Plans Staff Additions

The shorthanded Milledgeville State Hospital's medical and pyschiatric staff will be brought up to full strength July 1 if the money becomes available, said hospital director Dr. John Venable.

Dr. Venable said the State Health Department is asking for an extra million dollars to operate the hospital during the fiscal year that begins July 1.

The staff "will close ranks and do the best we can" until all vacancies are filled, Dr. Venable said.

Dr. Venable said several doctors are considering joining the staff but he noted that the hospital's current budget offers little leeway in salaries that can be offered.

Recently resigning from the hospital staff was Dr. Joe Combs, clinical director of the white women's division and president of the Georgia Psychiatric Assn., who accepted a Missouri job that pays $3,000 a year more.

Summer Work Starts Tuesday At Emory U.

Students from Emory University and more than 50 other colleges and universities will begin summer school classes Tuesday in Emory's college of arts and sciences and in the graduate, business, law and theology schools.

Teachers will attend a regular five-week workshop and the Science Workshop for Elementary Teachers taught by Dr. W. B. Baker, professor of biology at Emory.

Two National Science Foundation Institutes will operate at Emory during the summer. One is designed for chemistry teachers in the smaller colleges; the other is a science program for 60 talented high school seniors in the Atlanta area, half of whom will study geology and the remainder astrophysics.

Why Leave Home?

NO HUSBAND
Edith Baggett

MORE FUTURE HERE
Frances Wells

By YOLANDE GWIN

Why girls leave home has always been a fascinating subject.

But why do they?

Such a staid source as statistics imply that they are in search of a husband or a career. Preferably both.

One young woman here answered the question this way:

"I knew everybody in town and everybody knew me. Can you imagine a duller life? It was like living in a goldfish bowl."

Many girls and young women come to Atlanta for cultural advantages, educational facilities, broader social horizons and independence. They claim there is a chance of being more sophisticated, more mature and the age-old reason—an opportunity of meeting more men.

NOT A GOOD PLACE

"I'll admit that Atlanta is not a good place to find a husband—there are too many women here—but I came anyway," said one career girl. "At least I'll meet new people and everybody I meet will know somebody else and there it is—I'm bound to meet somebody, somewhere. I left home because I was not happy in a small town. I wanted to see how other people lived."

"Well, I had a brother at Emory and one of my best girl friends was living here, so I decided to try my wings in the big city," said Miss Frances Wells, from Reidsville, N. C. "I thought there would be more opportunity here than at home and certainly more future in the business world. I wasn't here very long before my roommate married. But I'm still here and loving every minute!"

Another career girl, Miss Edith Baggett, from Dunn, N. C., admits she "hasn't gotten a husband yet," but that was not her object in coming to Atlanta.

TRANSFERRED HERE

"During the shortage of manpower I worked at Ft. Bragg and later transferred to Atlanta where I work with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. I came here because I wanted to live in Atlanta and I'd do it all over again if necessary."

A school teacher, Miss Jane Mulkey, came here from Millen — object teaching.

"It was to satisfy my own goal," she said. "I had graduated from Wesleyan College with a speech and drama major. There was no outlet at home for teaching except private lessons and I preferred classroom teaching. I began teaching here at Washington Seminary and when it was closed I became a member of the faculty of North Side High School."

And here's a different excuse, if one needs one for moving to Atlanta.

"When I graduated from college I wanted to get a job," said Miss Patricia Fletcher of Fitzgerald. "I had a girl friend here and she suggested I come live with her and so I did. As for coming here to meet men, and perhaps a husband, was far from my mind."

"Are you against marriage?" she was asked.

"Oh, no, I'm engaged to the boy back home, just like in some novels. And I'm going to marry him in November."

Miss Ruth Dowling came to Atlanta from her hometown in Bainbridge via Albany and Athens, as a worker with a government agency.

"There was no definite planning on my part to come here," she said. "It was a series of transfers. Married? No, I'm not married. I'm in that great group known as a lady in waiting."

FORGOT PAST

"I came to Atlanta to forget my past," said another career girl. "I was engaged and the wedding date was set. I was left waiting at the altar, so to speak. Two days before we were to marry he told me he didn't love me and couldn't go through with the ceremony, so he just up and left town. Naturally I was heart-broken and crushed. I was young and didn't have the character to face the town. So I left and came to Atlanta. I had a scar on my heart but it is healing slowly.

Another girl said that she certainly did move to Atlanta to find a husband.

"I don't care if the women do outnumber the men, if I meet one I like, I'm going to use every trick I can to get him," she said.

Georgia's Poultry Princess Wants a Career in Medicine

By BETTY CARROLLTON

A Georgia beauty queen takes to the needle for a double-dose of future security.

Not only is her deftness with needle and thread a boost to any season's wardrobe, but Miss Georgia Poultry Princess of 1959 has her eye on a future among the hypos and test tubes of a medical lab.

"I've been interested in medicine and doctoring — particularly in hospital work — as long as I can remember," declared tall, blonde Dorothy Taylor shortly after her coronation as poultry princess. "I liked chemistry and physics in school, although my grades were nothing to brag about," she added, flashing an engaging smile.

But at least the grades were not on a low enough level to discourage the Valdosta beauty from planning a career as a medical technician.

"I'm working as a private secretary right now," she disclosed, "but I'm going to Valdosta State College with a career as a medical technician as my ultimate aim."

POSTPONE STUDIES

Her studies will be postponed for a while, however, to allow Dorothy to compete with lovely lassies the world over for the title of "Miss Universe." She'll go to Long Beach, Calif., to vie for the crown in July.

"That means such a lot to me," the 18-year-old blonde said. "Right now I'm still suffering from surprise and shock from winning the poultry princess title — I really never thought I'd win it.

Dorothy's mother, Mrs. Gladys Taylor, who accompanied the beauty to Atlanta, shares her daughter's joy. The two have found that when they do try to relax after the hectic days of being interviewed by judges — and the press—their moments of calm are disrupted by the growing excitement of the California journey.

"When I think of all the people I'll meet, and everything that being a 'Miss Universe' contestant means," Dorothy declared, "I get excited all over again."

The time element between her selection as poultry princess and beginning of the "Miss Universe" festivities poses another problem: The statuesque blonde won't have time to create a special gown to wear.

"I design and make a lot of my clothes," Dorothy revealed, "and it would be nice if I could make one for the contest. I don't think I'll have the time, though. But at least I'll get one started."

The talented 18-year-old who was selected "Miss Clyattville High School" for her only other beauty crown, is always pretty busy. In addition to her job and time consumed by dreaming up additions to her wardrobe, Dorothy lends mom a daily helping hand.

She lists cooking as her favorite homemaker chore, and washing dishes the "job-I'd like-to-stay-away-from."

FANCY CAKES

"I often dream up fancy cakes," Dorothy laughed, "but somehow they just don't seem to turn out quite right."

When she leaves for California, Dorothy is assured of her own cheering section back home. Her three sisters and older brother will be rooting for her all the way. (Their father died several years ago.)

"We've always been very close," the poultry princess said softly. "Of course, we tease each other a lot. My brother particularly likes to tease me about the clothes I make. But nothing really rough, just good-natured teasing."

Dorothy maintains she's not hard to please when it comes to food, she likes practically everything. And, of course:

"I like chicken—any way it's cooked!"

Linda Sims To Wear Lace Train Worn by Fiance's Mother, Aunt

When Linda Sims ascends the aisle of St. Philip's Cathedral to become the bride of Robert Grady on Friday evening, she will wear a candlelight satin gown featuring a sweeping court train of Brussels lace that was formerly worn by her fiance's mother, Mrs. Henry Grady, and his aunt, Mrs. Robert L. Foreman, at their weddings.

Linda's gown will be finished at the neckline with a bertha of Brussels lace that once graced a frock worn by her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Benjamin B. Lyon of Boston. Her triple-tiered veil of illusion will cascade from a small cap fashioned of rose point lace that was also worn by Mrs. Grady and Mrs. Foremans as brides.

Visitors began arriving last week to attend the wedding, the early arrivals including Jane Tatman of Connersville, Ind., who is the guest of Mary Anne Claiborne on W. Wesley road, and Margot McKee of Westtown, Pa., Linda's former Sweet Briar roommate, who is the guest of Nina Wilkerson on Peachtree Battle avenue.

Expected tomorrow for the wedding and the final prenuptial festivities are John C. Fay Jr. of Sylacauga, Ala., and Thomas F. Motley of Roxboro, N.C., both of whom will be groomsmen.

Others arriving this week are Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Sims of Riverside, Conn., and Edward Sims of Jeffersonville, Ind., who will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Harris of Vernon road, Lt. and Mrs. Albert S. Britt of Savannah, Mr. and Mrs. William McCorkle of Lexington, Va., Elizabeth Dew of Jacksonville, Mrs. Donald M. Freeman and the George L. Cobbs of Old Greenwich, Conn., Charles Ausley of Tallahassee, Edward Allen of Birmingham, and Mrs. Walter Wellborn of Anniston.

MRS. HOWARD C. SMITH, her son, Richard, and her sister, Miss Genevieve Riley, will return today from a 10-day visit to Jacksonville and Miami. In Jacksonville they visited Mrs. Smith's son, Lt. Hamilton Smith, USN, who is stationed there. In Miami they were guests at the Columbus Hotel.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN R. BOARDMAN and their small daughter, Martha, are expected tomorrow from Newport News, Va., for a visit to Mr. Boardman's parents, the William K. Boardmans Jr. of Stovall boulevard.

A POPULAR YOUNG Georgian, Sidney Ault Adamson of Cedartown, is included in next winter's debutante coterie at Baltimore where she is now enjoying the whirl of parties known as the "Little Season."

The daughter of the Thomas Adamsons, III of Cedartown, Sidney is the guest in Baltimore of Mr. and Mrs. Chase Ridgely who will entertain at an elaborate cocktail party in her honor on Friday at their home at 208 Northway. The following day Mr. and Mrs. William P. Meekes and the Edgar Smiths will give a luncheon for her at the Gibson Island Club.

Miss Adamson will return to Baltimore in December to be formally presented with the other debutantes at the Bachelors' Cotillion.

WITH SCHOOLS OUT and the Georgia beaches at their best, perhaps, a general exodus to St. Simons and Sea Island is starting for the young married set.

Though the Robert R. Ingrams and their young daughters, Patty and Annette, are just back from a weekend spent on the lake at Guntersville, Ala., the family will take off Friday to spend the weekend at Ship House on St. Simons' East Beach.

The George Dunbars and their son, Bayly, left Sunday for two weeks at Sea Island, and departing yesterday for St. Simons were Mr. and Mrs. William George and three of their children, Mary Coleman, Ross and Barton, who have taken a cottage on East Beach.

GUY M. TARRANCE JR. left by plane on Saturday for Sacramento, Calif., where he will be employed for the summer. His cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J. Tyler Taylor who are former Atlantans, have planned weekend visits to Lake Tahoe, San Francisco and other places for Guy who will resume his studies at Georgia Tech in September.

HOSPITAL NOTES — Grant Allen is a patient at Georgia Baptist Hospital. . . . Mrs. Mary O. Quisenberry has returned to her home in East Point after an illness at Emory Hospital.

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN E. TURNER and their son, Eddy, left Sunday by plane for a three-month tour of the Near East.

Alpha Phi Sets Meeting

Alpha Phi Atlanta Alumnae chapter will meet at the Coach House Wednesday, June 17, at 12 noon.

New officers include Mrs. Don R. Buffington, president; Mrs. D. F. Freeman, secretary; Mrs. John B. Tuggle, treasurer; Mrs. E. S. Cook, member at large, and Mrs. Thomas Hall and Mrs. Barham Bobo, Panhellenic representatives.

Dior's High Fashion Wows the Russians

By HARRISON E. SALISBURY

(Copyright, 1959, by The New York Times Co.)

MOSCOW—Christian Dior showed its spring and summer collection to Moscow last week. Whether the House of Dior or Moscow will ever be quite the same again is an open question.

As the tones of Lohengrin's wedding march died away, bringing the great show to an end with a display of a misty white bridal gown, a Dior representative asked a pensive middle-aged Moscow woman "what do you think?"

The woman replied: "I think—a lot."

Nothing like Dior's show of more than $1,500,000 worth of gowns and $100,000 worth of furs has ever been seen in Moscow. The show opened in the rotunda hall of the club "Krylya Sovetov—Wings of the Soviet," Moscow's Air Club.

Three-quarters of a gallon of pure essence of Miss Dior, one of the house's leading perfumes, was wafted into the hall by two urn-like perfume diffusers. Eleven svelte models, including four from England, one from South America, one from Germany and five from Paris, modeled the collection.

WORTH $5,000

Individual gowns were valued up to $5,000. There was a mink-lined raincoat in the collection. Not a single change was made in Dior's presentation. It was the Paris show unadulterated and Moscow—or most of that small part of Moscow which could cram into the wings of the Soviet Club—loved it.

But not every Muscovite fell in love with the Paris styles. For instance, take the blonde Moscow girl who was helping a cameraman for Soviet newsreels. The cameraman pointed to a sensational red silk dress modeled by a striking blonde. "Wonderful?" he asked the girl. "Terrible," she replied.

"How do you think Moscow women will like these styles?" she was asked. "Not much," she said sharply.

"Why?"

"They're too extreme."

"Don't you think they're pretty?"

"They're pretty but they're not for Moscow."

But this girl's opinion did not appear to be shared by many of the audience, who oohed and ahhed and applauded dress after spectacular dress.

The faces of Moscow women lighted with expressions of rapture as the glittering procession of gowns flashed before their eyes. At first the women seemed taken aback by the spectral appearance of model Kauka-Maria Hayde Gaspard of Buenos Aires, top mannikin of the Dior establishment. But before the show was long under way they were applauding strongly. The Dior establishment was as nervous as if it was opening in Paris before the first Russian public showing. Jacques Rouet, managing director of the establishment, was in charge of the showing, which was preceded by an exchange of speeches between French Ambassador Maurice DeJean and M. Nesterov, head of the Soviet Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the Dior appearances in Moscow.

As the models paraded down the spotlighted runway hidden loudspeakers blared a medley of music, mostly American—Let's Go Sailing for the Summer, I Gave My Heart to You, No Regrets and many many others.

FRENCH EMBASSY

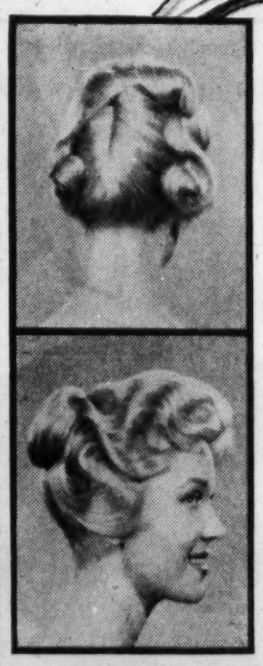

The show was given its initial presentation last night at the French Embassy to the Moscow diplomatic corps and a very small group of Russians, which included G. A. Zhukov, chairman of the cultural committee, and his wife; Segei Obratzov, puppeteer, and his wife; Nesterov and his wife, other foreign trade officials, playright Sergei Mikhailov and his wife, ballet director Igor Moiseev and a few others.

Today the Dior collection went before a real Moscow audience three times—morning, afternoon and evening.

Tickets for the Dior opening were harder to get than tickets for the opening of the Bolshoi at New York's Metropolitan. There are only about 800 seats in the club and the show is presented only five days. The audience included hundreds of women connected with the dress industry and textiles. Half of the spectators had pencils and sketch pads.

BEAUTY AND CHARM UNDERFOOT. This is one of the new carpets being introduced this week at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago and bids fair to be among the most popular of the new floor coverings. Named "Spire" it achieves a fresh look for the centuries-old Greek key theme by clever handcrafted working of nubby wool loops and sheared smooth areas. It mixes well, as shown here, with 18th century furnishings and the modern backdrop of a picture window and terrace.

Lines, McAllister Vows Said

The Oakhurst Presbyterian Church of Decatur formed the setting for the marriage on Saturday evening of Miss Mary Sydney Lines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lines, to Angus Sanford McAllister, son of Mrs. William A. McAllister and the late Mr. McAllister of Cuthbert.

The Rev. Reuben T. Allen officiated at the service which was followed by a reception held in the church parlors, with Mr. and Mrs. Lines as hosts.

The bride was attended by her sister, Jean Plummer Lines, as maid of honor; Mrs. William McLendon II and Glennie Cooper as bridesmaids.

John R. McAllister of Cuthbert served as his brother's best man, and in the role of ushers were Virgil Reed, William Fleming, Dan Conner, William Lanford and Henry Arnold.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will reside at 780 Lindbergh Dr.

Youth Wants To Help Teens With Problems

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I have no real problems but I would like to ask you something. My secret ambition is to help other teen-agers but I don't know how to get started. Being a teen-ager myself I think I can understand many of our problems. If there is any way I can help other teens I would sincerely like to do it.

I have heard speakers who talked to teen-agers and I guess that is what really sparked my interest in this direction. I've often wondered how these people, who seem to make a career of it, got their start. I truly hope you can be of help. Mother and I enjoy your column and it has encouraged many friendly discussions between us.

While you are still in high school it may be difficult to fulfill your ambition to help other teen-agers—on a large scale. However, there are several things you can do which might seem unimportant to you now but they could have far-reaching effects on the lives of other youngsters—as well as on your own life.

First of all, set a good example for those around you. By doing this you also will be training yourself to become the right kind of adult.

While there is bound to be some parent-teen friction even in the most congenial families, it is important to try to understand the adult views of your parents and learn to get along with them. You see, this is good "basic training" for getting along with others.

To directly help others, of your age-group, you always should offer a helping hand when it is needed. Be kind and considerate, especially of those who are less fortunate than you are. Take active part in school and extra curricular activities—the student council, Y-Teens, etc. In other words work toward becoming a leader, one who is sincere and admirable.

Be active in your church youth group. Work diligently to help others understand the importance of making their group a solid part of your church. Ask your closest friends to help you form committees to arrange inspirational meetings as well as fun gatherings and offer to teach a Sunday school class of preteens or younger children.

Miss Marcia Lee Graham To Wed Thomas E. Bell Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Graham of Briar Mill road announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marcia Lee Graham, to Thomas Elliott Bell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Bell Sr. of Glenview, Ill.

The wedding will take place on July 11 at the Haygood Methodist Church.

The bride-elect attended Penn Hall Junior College and received her nursing degree from Jefferson Medical College Hospital, Philadelphia.

Mr. Bell received an engineering degree from Georgia Tech where he was a member of Phi Gamma Delta. He served two years with the Marine Corps, and is now associated with Spotswood Parker and Co.

Miss Fletcher To Marry Mr. Sealock

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fletcher of Jackson announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Joanne Fletcher, to Larry Joe Sealock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Sealock of Atlanta.

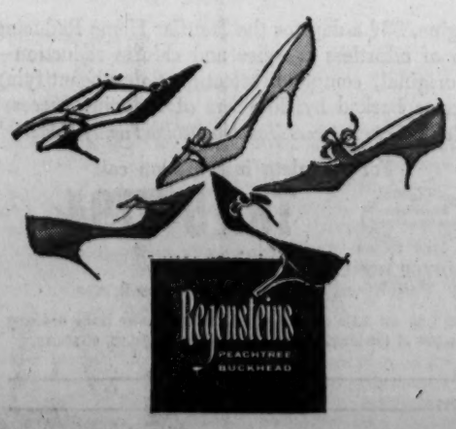

Following their marriage on July 4, the couple will reside in Atlanta.

Miss Fletcher, a graduate of Jackson High School, is now employed by Universal Distributors, Inc., in Atlanta.

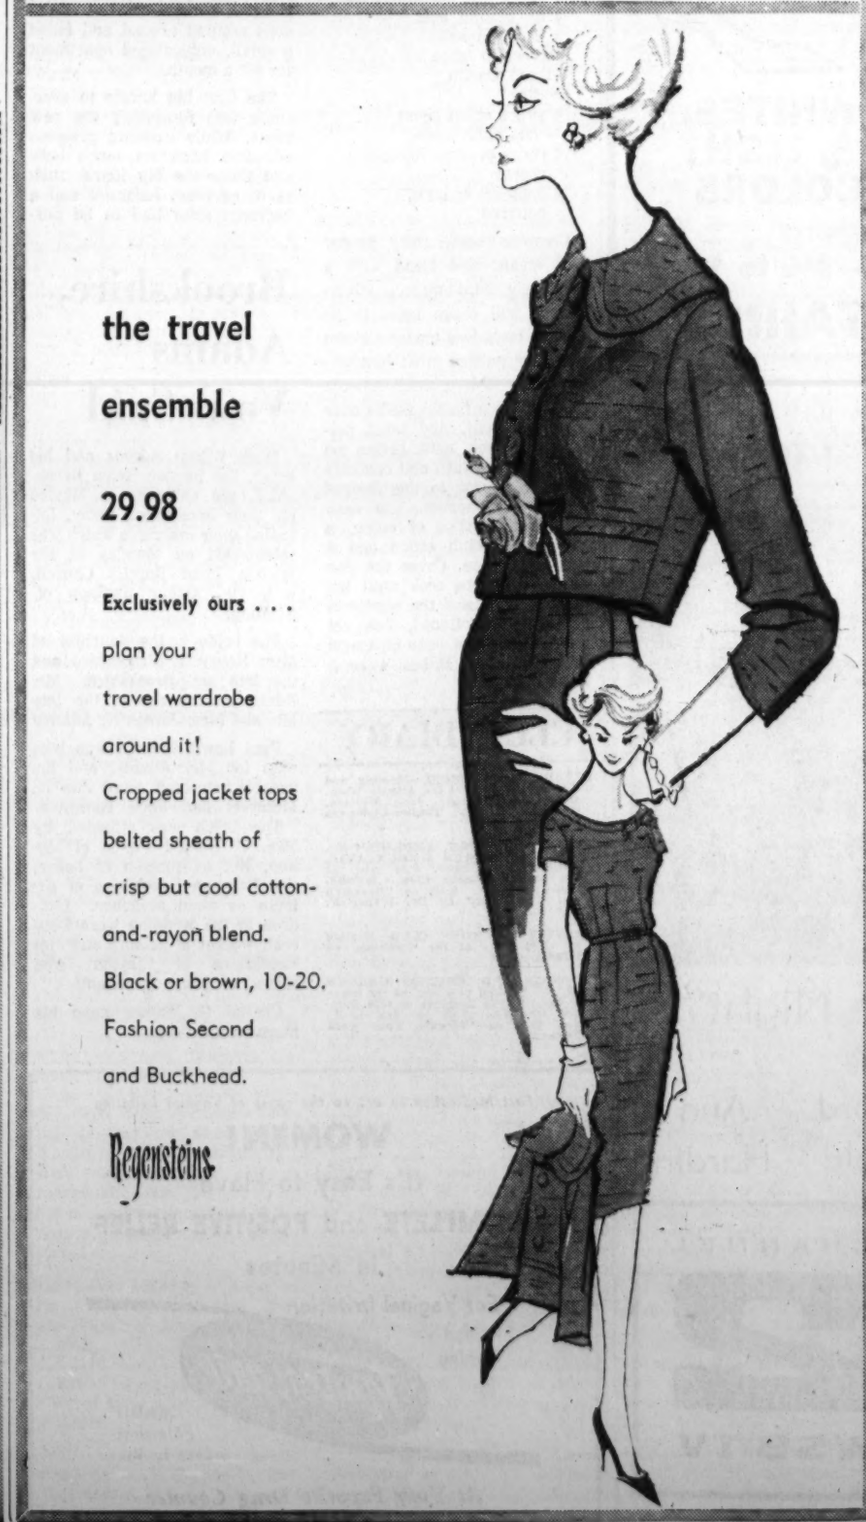

Mr. Sealock attended Pepperell High School. He was recently discharged from the U.S. Army, and is presently employed at the Best Upholstery Company.

WHIDDENS MANAGE ON $300 A MONTH BUDGET
Pat and Chuck Talk Over Expenses

How Does Young Atlanta Live On a Modest Budget?

By JOYCE GEMMILL

How much money does a young married couple need to live on in Atlanta today? And how do they manage?

"We'll worry about tomorrow when it gets here and do the best we can today," is the marital motto of this generation of newlyweds.

Aided by ingenuity, the installment plan, financial assistance for college from the government for veterans and perhaps the naivete of youth itself in money matters, the junior marital set manages to make ends meet. And on peanuts!—much to the awe and amazement of bewildered if practical-minded parents.

Here's the story of one of Atlanta's typical young married couples and how they manage to live on $300 a month, plus $100 which is a government veterans allotment for night school:

Charles and Pat Whidden of Bolton Dr., NW, Atlanta, have been married 10 months. Pat was 20 and Chuck was 24. The fact that Chuck and Pat had no money saved was no deterrent to a marital career. After a brief honeymoon the Whiddens scouted around and found a small, unfurnished apartment for $72 a month.

The first big hurdle to overcome was furnishing the new home. While wedding presents added a luxurious touch here and there the big items, such as living room furniture and a bedroom suite had to be purchased. By scrimping and saving, a chair, a bed and a TV set were added.

Since both Pat and Chuck loved good pictures, but could not afford to buy them, they went down to the public library and borrowed them on a month-to-month basis. A large colored glass decanter, inexpensive but effective, cushion-type upholstered pillows scattered casually on the floor and a low and mad cocktail table added up to a very smart-looking living room.

Somehow a small breakfast table was wedged into the tiniest of kitchens, but little knicknacks hung around the walls, a bowl of artificial fruit made a cheerful kitchen out of cramped quarters.

Now a bassinet has been added to the empty other bedroom and Pat is busy dreaming up ideas for the new nursery. Pat says she spends $20 a week for food. She and Chuck have limited their entertainment expenses to not over $5 a week and utility bills are kept to a minimum.

By working together on all matters financial, Pat and Chuck have managed to set up and stick to a pretty tight budget. Chuck also carries a good family hospital insurance plan. The car is through the courtesy of the installment plan.

Pat says she has no desire to work, loves to cook and is an excellent one according to her husband. Making a home that's attractive but still doesn't make too much of a financial drain on the family income is an art but one which many of Atlanta's young married couples have obviously mastered.

Most young wives, can give the mamma-in-law plenty of competition in the kitchen while all meals are prepared with an eye to vitamin content as well as low-fat content.

All in all, today's young marrieds are in far better shape than their grandmothers and are proving to be much better managers in the home. Mamma can relax! Daughter's got everything under control, including hubby!

4 slices process American
1 lb. ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
¼ cup cream
Butter
4 sweet onion slices
¼ cup chili sauce
4 slices process American cheese
4 hamburger buns, buttered

Combine beef, salt, pepper and cream and blend with a fork only until mixed. (Overmixing will cause meat to be compact and less tender.) Form into four patties to fit hamburger buns. Melt a small amount of butter in a heavy skillet over moderate heat. Add meat patties and cook until brown on one side, then turn and continue to cook almost to the desired degree of doneness. Top each with a thin slice of onion, a spoonful of chili sauce and a slice of cheese. Cover the pan and continue to cook until the meat is done and the cheese is heated and softened, but not melted. Serve at once on warm buttered buns. Makes 4 servings.

Edgar T. Reeves Sr.

Edgar T. Reeves Sr., 75, a retired butcher, died Sunday at his home, 397 Fifth St., NE.

Mr. Reeves was a native of Alabama. He was a member of the Macedonia Baptist Church.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Trinity Chapel. Burial will be in the Macedonia Church cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, the former Mary Stephens; a son, Edgar T. Reeves Jr., Atlanta; five daughters, Mrs. R. R. Parker and Mrs. T. R. Crawford Jr., both of Atlanta; Mrs. R. A. Petree, Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. M. A. Senol, Decatur, and Mrs. C. E. Reeves, Fayetteville, and three brothers, Floyd, Oscar and Lawson Reeves, all of Stone Mountain.

Bridesmaid, 17, Stricken Fatally At Wedding Here

A 17-year-old bridesmaid died here in a private hospital about noon Monday following a cerebral hemorrhage suffered during her brother's wedding reception Sunday evening at Atlanta's Ahavath Achim Synagogue.

Relatives said Ronda Marlene Cohen of Macon collapsed during the reception immediately following the wedding of her brother, Larry A. Cohen, a University of Georgia medical student, to Miss Edith Faye Rubin of Atlanta.

Miss Cohen was the daughter of Isaac (Jack) Cohen, a Macon wholesale jobber, and Mrs. Cohen.

Miss Cohen had served as a bridesmaid, relatives said, and had caught the bridal bouquet after the ceremony. She fainted 10 minutes later and never regained consciousness, relatives said.

A physician told relatives the girl had probably been born with a weakened blood vessel, and that the attack could have occurred at any time.

Miss Cohen, a life-long resident of Macon, would have been a senior at Miller Senior Girls High School there next fall. She was a former sweetheart of the AZA fraternity, and she was a member of the DOM Sorority and the B'nai B'rith Girls.

Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Hart's Mortuary in Macon. Dr. Harry S. Epstein will officiate. Burial will be the Shearith Israel Cemetery there.

Other survivors include another brother, Lt. Marvin B. Cohen, USAF, and her grandfather, Arthur Haskins, Macon.

James E. Scarbrough

James Elco Scarbrough, 47, a clerk with the Georgia Railroad, died Sunday night in a private hospital. Relatives attributed his death to a heart attack.

Mr. Scarbrough's home was at 402 East Forrest Ave., East Point. He was a member of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist Church.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Carmichael's Chapel. The Rev. W. N. Stephens will officiate. Burial will be in Westview Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, the former Mary Elizabeth Evans; a daughter, Mrs. Betty Treherne; his father, V. L. Scarbrough, and two brothers, W. O. and L. E. Scarbrough, all of Atlanta.

Inquest in Newton to Probe Pistol Death of Atlanta Clerk

Constitution State News Service

COVINGTON — Newton County Coroner Sam Cowan said Monday an inquest will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Caldwell and Cowan Funeral Home here into the death of Raymond Rowe, 49, Rte. 2, Covington.

Mr. Rowe, employed as a clerk in a liquor store at Little Five Points, Atlanta, was found dead late Sunday night at his home with a bullet wound in the right temple and a .22-caliber revolver in his hand, Coroner Cowan said.

He added Mr. Rowe had been despondent, and left two notes, contents of which were not made public.

Mr. Rowe is survived by his wife, Minnie Oliver Rowe, who found the body; a son, Randy Rowe; a sister, Mrs. Myrtle Mobley of Atlanta, and three brothers, Troy Rowe of Atlanta, and Ray Rowe and Houston Rowe, both of Covington.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the J. C. Harwell Funeral Home here, with the Rev. Herbert Owens officiating. Burial will be in Longwood Cemetery.

OBITUARIES

Claude E. Gambrell

Claude E. Gambrell, 54, died Monday at his home, 217 Wilton Dr., Decatur, following a heart attack.

Mr. Gambrell, a native of Abbeville, S.C., moved to the Atlanta area about two years ago. He was a retired electrician.

The Rosary will be said at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Trinity Chapel.

Funeral services will be at 10 p.m. Wednesday at the Saint Thomas More Roman Catholic Church. The Rev. John W. Leahy will officiate. Burial will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Abbeville, South Carolina.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON AN URBAN REDEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR THE RAWSON-WASHINGTON STREET URBAN REDEVELOPMENT PROJECT, ATLANTA, GEORGIA

The Urban Renewal Committee of the Board of Aldermen of the City of Atlanta, at the direction of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Atlanta, will hold a public hearing on the Urban Redevelopment Plan for the Rawson-Washington Street Urban Redevelopment Project at 2:00 o'clock P.M., June 26, 1959, in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, Atlanta, Georgia.

The purpose of the hearing is to consider an Urban Redevelopment Plan for the undertaking of an Urban Redevelopment Project in the Rawson-Washington Street Urban Redevelopment Area in accordance with and in furtherance of the objectives of the Georgia Urban Redevelopment Law (Ga. Laws 1955, pp. 354-380) with federal financial assistance under Title I of the Housing Act of 1949 (Public Law 171, 81st Cong.)

The Rawson-Washington Street Urban Redevelopment Area is generally identified as consisting of 332.8 acres located in Fulton County, in the City of Atlanta, Georgia and is more particularly described as follows:

BEGINNING at the northwest corner of the intersection of Fraser Street and Memorial Drive, S. W.; thence westerly along the northern line of Memorial Drive to the northwestern line of Whitehall Street; thence southwest along the northwest line of Whitehall Street to the right-of-way of the Southern Railroad; thence southerly along the eastern right-of-way of the Southern Railroad to its intersection with the southern line of Georgia Avenue; thence easterly along the southern line of Georgia Avenue to its intersection with the eastern line of Smith Street; thence northerly along the eastern line of Smith Street to its intersection with the northern line of Glenn Street; thence westerly along the northern line of Glenn Street to its intersection with the eastern line of Whitehall Terrace; thence northwesterly along the eastern line of Whitehall Terrace to its intersection with the southern boundary of the Expressway right-of-way; thence northeasterly, easterly and southeasterly along the southern and western boundary of the Expressway right-of-way to its intersection with the southern line of Georgia Avenue; thence easterly along the southern line of Georgia Avenue to its intersection with the western line of Washington Street; thence south 150 feet to a point on the west side of Washington Street; thence easterly across Washington Street to the southeastern corner of two alleys; said corner being 265 feet east of the east line of Washington Street; thence south along the east line of said alley eighty-eight feet to a point; thence due east across Crew Street 297 feet more or less to the west line of an alley; thence, north ten feet to its intersection with the north line of an alley, thence, east along the north line of said alley seventy-two feet to the east line of a north-south alley; thence, north along said east line forty-four feet to a point; thence due east to the east line of Capitol Avenue; thence northerly along the eastern boundary of Capitol Avenue to its intersection of the southern boundary of Georgia Avenue; thence easterly along the southern boundary of Georgia Avenue to a point directly south of the eastern boundary of Eustace Street; thence northerly across Georgia Avenue along the eastern boundary of Eustace Street across Glenn and Crumley Streets to the northern boundary of Crumley Street; thence westerly fifty feet more or less along the northern boundary of Crumley Street to a point of intersection with the eastern boundary of an alley between Capitol Avenue and Fraser Street; thence northerly along the eastern boundary of the alley across Richardson Street to the northern boundary of Richardson Street; thence northerly along property lines, across an east-west alley, along property lines on a generaly mid-block alignment to the south side of Fulton Street; thence easterly four feet more or less to a point opposite the eastern side of a mid-block north-south alley; thence northerly across Fulton Street and along the east side of the alley and the lot lines to its intersection with the southern boundary of the Expressway right-of-way; thence easterly along the southern boundary line of the Expressway right-of-way to its intersection with the eastern line of Kelly Street; thence northerly along the eastern line of Kelly Street to its intersection with the northern line of Woodward Avenue; thence westwardly along the northern line of Woodward Avenue to its intersection with the western line of Connally Street; thence southerly along the western line of Connally Street to its intersection with the northern line of Logan Street; thence westerly along the northern line of Logan Street and across Martin Street to the southeast corner of property owned by the Atlanta Housing Authority, known as Capitol Homes; thence, southwesterly and westerly along the southern line of Capitol Homes to the eastern side of Terry Street; thence northerly along the eastern line of Terry Street to the northern line of Woodward Avenue; thence westerly along the northern line of Woodward Avenue to its intersection with the eastern line of Fraser Street; thence northerly along the eastern line of Fraser Street across Memorial Drive to the point of beginning.

The general scope of the Urban Redevelopment Project under consideration is that most of the land within the Urban Redevelopment Area will be acquired by negotiation or by exercise of the power of eminent domain; all of the structures on the land so acquired will be removed or demolished; streets, utilities and other site improvements will be altered, constructed, reconstructed and installed; all land so acquired will be sold to public agencies for public use or, under reasonable competitive bidding, to private enterprise for private use, subject to certain restrictions more particularly set out in the Plan; and in not to be acquired areas City codes and ordinances will be enforced and a voluntary program of rehabilitation will be undertaken.

Copies of the proposed Urban Redevelopment Plan and detailed maps and plats of the Rawson-Washington Street Urban Redevelopment Area, including maps which show in detail the property to be acquired may be inspected at the office of The Housing Authority of the City of Atlanta, Georgia, 419 Trust Company of Georgia Building, Atlanta, Georgia, and at the office of the Urban Renewal Department, City Hall, Atlanta, Georgia.

Any person or organization desiring to be heard will be afforded an opportunity to be heard as such hearing.
HAMILTON DOUGLAS JR.,
Chairman, Urban Renewal Committee, Atlanta Board of Aldermen.

62 Bears Slain For Headpieces

TIMMINS, Ont. (AP) — Buckingham Palace guards are going to get at least 124 new bearskin headpieces from a bear hunt organized in this area.

Monday is the last day hunters can legally carry guns in the bush. All told, 62 bears have been taken since the hunt began May 16. Each skin is enough for two headpieces to replace any motheaten ones now in use in London.

LODGE NOTICES

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON AN URBAN REDEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR THE THOMASVILLE URBAN REDEVELOPMENT PROJECT, ATLANTA, GEORGIA

The Urban Renewal Committee of the Board of Aldermen of the City of Atlanta, at the direction of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Atlanta, will hold a public hearing on the Urban Redevelopment Plan for the Thomasville Urban Redevelopment Project at 3:00 o'clock p.m., June 26, 1959, in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, Atlanta, Georgia.

The purpose of the hearing is to consider an Urban Redevelopment Plan for the undertaking of an Urban Redevelopment Project in the Thomasville Urban Redevelopment Area in accordance with and in furtherance of the objectives of the Georgia Urban Redevelopment Law (Ga. Laws 1955, pp. 354-380) with Federal financial assistance under Title I of the Housing Act of 1949 (Public Law 171, 81st Cong.)

The Thomasville Urban Redevelopment Area consists of 277.75 acres of land in the southeast section of the City of Atlanta, Georgia, approximately four miles from the City Hall, located in Land Lots 6, 7, 8 and 26 of the Fourteenth District of Fulton County, Georgia, and is bounded on the east by Moreland Avenue; on the south by the Southern Railroad and adjacent industrial properties; on the west by the United States Federal Penitentiary Reservation; and on the north by the ravine between Sherin Avenue and Moreland Drive; and is more particularly described as follows:

BEGINNING AT THE WESTERN CORNER OF THE intersection of McDonough Road and Forrest Park Road; thence southeasterly along the western edge of Forest Park Road approximately 183 feet to its intersection with a southern boundary of the Federal Prison property; thence westerly along this property line, approximately 1,251 feet to its intersection with the eastern boundary of land lot 26; thence southerly along the eastern boundary of said land lot 594 feet to a point; thence due west 308 feet to a point; thence due south 283 feet to a point; thence due east approximately 308 feet to a point on the eastern boundary of land lot 26; thence southerly along the eastern boundary of said land lot approximately 319 feet to a point; said point being 370 feet north of Federal Avenue; thence westerly along rear property lines of lots fronting on Federal Avenue 1,127 feet to its intersection with the northern right-of-way of the Southern Railroad; thence southeasterly along the northern right-of-way of the Southern Railroad approximately 629 feet to a point; thence southerly along said northern right-of-way line approximately 38 feet to a point; thence southeasterly along said northern right-of-way line approximately 92 feet to a point; thence easterly along said northern right-of-way line approximately 30 feet to a point; thence southeasterly along said northern right-of-way line approximately 3,080 feet to its intersection with the rear property line of those properties on the eastern side of and facing on Phillips Drive; thence northerly along said rear property lines approximately 655 feet to its intersection with the rear property line of those properties on the south side of and facing Kipling Street; thence easterly along said rear property lines and such line extended approximately 1,345 feet to its intersection with the center line of Moreland Avenue, said center line being the City Limit line of Atlanta, and the County line of Fulton and DeKalb Counties; thence northerly along said center line approximately 3,910 feet to a point; said point being 605 feet north of Sherin Avenue; thence westerly along a line approximately 194 feet to a point; thence northwesterly along a line approximately 333 feet to a point; thence westerly along a line approximately 150 feet to its intersection with the eastern edge of Woodland Avenue; thence southerly along the eastern edge of Woodland Avenue approximately 100 feet to a point; thence southwesterly along a line approximately 345 feet to a point; thence southerly along a line approximately 55 feet to a point; thence northwesterly along a line approximately 720 feet to a point; thence southerly along a line approximately 141 feet to its intersection with the western edge of Hanes Circle; thence southerly along the western edge of Hanes Circle approximately 86 feet to a point; thence southwesterly along a line approximately 173 feet to a point; thence westerly along a line approximately 489 feet to its intersection with the south edge of McDonough Road; thence along the south edge of McDonough Road approximately 680 feet to the point of beginning.

The general scope of the Urban Redevelopment Project under consideration is that most of the land within the Urban Redevelopment Area will be acquired by negotiation or by exercise of the power of eminent domain; all of the structures on the land so acquired will be removed or demolished; streets, utilities and other site improvements will be altered, constructed, reconstructed and installed; all land so acquired will be sold to public agencies for public use or, under reasonable competitive bidding, to private enterprise for private use, subject to certain restrictions more particularly set out in the Plan; and in not to be acquired areas City codes and ordinances will be enforced and a voluntary program of rehabilitation will be undertaken.

Copies of the proposed Urban Redevelopment Plan and detailed maps and plats of the Thomasville Urban Redevelopment Area, including maps which show in detail the property to be acquired, may be inspected at the office of the Housing Authority of the City of Atlanta, Georgia, 419 Trust Company of Georgia Building, Atlanta, Georgia, and at the office of the Urban Renewal Department, City Hall, Atlanta, Georgia.

Any person or organization desiring to be heard will be afforded an opportunity to be heard at such hearing.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♥.

The West player of today's hand by taking out time to count the adverse cards at the critical stage of the play was able to make a very thoughtful play to defeat an overly ambitious slam contract.

The bidding is recorded as it actually took place and does not carry our stamp of approval. North lacks the high cards for a jump raise and he is by no means in a position to demand a game contract. The proper response is two clubs, intending to raise diamonds on the next round. South's leap to slam seemed reasonable on the bidding.

The deuce of hearts was opened and the disappointing dummy spread. The trick was taken by declarer and the remaining heart ruffed in dummy. Trumps were drawn in two rounds and the four club tricks cashed, South discarding the seven of spades. A low spade was then led from dummy and the jack played by declarer. Had West taken the trick, declarer would have been "home," since a heart continuation would permit declarer to ruff in dummy and discard a losing spade, and a spade return would trap East's queen. Declarer is known to have had four diamonds, three clubs and only two hearts (since if he had any more hearts he would have ruffed them out before making the spade play). He, therefore, had originally four spades and there was no need to take the trick with the ace.

There was nothing South could do to prevent the loss of two spade tricks. The same situation would have developed if the ten of spades had been led from dummy. East would cover with the queen, South with the king and West would duck as before.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

By Dr. Sarah Jordan

All Diabetics Must Follow Rules

Diabetes Mellitus or "Sugar diabetes" is a disease of a chemical disturbance in the way the sugars and starches are used by the body. The blood carries an excessive amount of the sugar called glucose. In the course of events within the body chemistry this excessive sugar "spills over" into the urine.

The diagnosis is often first suspected by the finding of sugar in the urine and confirmed by one of two tests, the blood sugar or the so-called glucose tolerance test. The glucose tolerance test is just what its name implies—a test of how the body tolerates glucose given by mouth in a certain amount and the results of changes in the body checked through various samples of urine at intervals thereafter.

The organ involved in this disease is the pancreas, the glandular structure which lies behind the stomach and has a part in fat digestion as well as in the production of insulin. It is in little islets of pancreatic cells called the Langerhans cells, that insulin is secreted, and insulin is the substance which promotes the proper utilization of carbohydrates in the body.

Other changes in the chemistry of protein and fat are secondary to the carbohydrate disturbances, resulting in serious effects upon the body and when unchecked may lead to coma and a fatal outcome.

Heredity and obesity play a part in the development of this disease of deficient production of insulin. Elderly people are especially prone to develop this disease. In them, however, it is usually easily controlled by keeping the weight in check and often with dietary restrictions only.

Until the discovery of insulin, in 1921, the active principle of the pancreas, the management of the disease depended upon diet and general care. Since the epoch-making work of certain Canadian workers, led by Banting and Best, insulin has made the treatment of diabetes effective and lifesaving.

The absence or deficiency of insulin in the diabetic is probably not the only factor in the cause of this disease. Overactivity of other glands requiring the production of larger amounts of insulin than normal may also play a part.

The care of the diabetic should extend throughout his life. Infection and obesity are to be avoided as the greatest dangers. Dietary care, the strictness of which should be determined by the physician and scrupulously followed by the patient, is of the greatest importance.

A periodic examination of urine and blood is advisable in all those who have diabetic forbears.

Since there are complications of uncontrolled diabetes, as well as of treatment of the disease, it behooves all diabetics, mild and severe, to follow medical advice to the proverbial letter.

Daily Guide—A lighter note and friendly feeling gets the day off to a good start. A smile will do wonders to put you on the way to a pleasant day. This is a fine time to plan a little excursion, take a break to look around at the beauty of spring, window shop, or just relax chatting with a friend.

One often is so beset by the big issues of insecurity in a confused world that the little pleasures of every day are unnoticed and unappreciated. Cancerians and Leos are favored today. Tomorrow is the Capricorians and Scorpia-ans who have a chance to consolidate their relationships.

Happy Birthday, Gemini! Your affairs should be brought to a high peak of accomplishment this week and this will give you a chance to see that the depressive years of difficulties in personal relationships are behind you.

There will be opportunities in the fall to gain through others, especially through marriage or partnerships.

Financial matters may be frozen now, so keep tight hold of security funds and balance your budget this month.

"Although the TV Westerns play up violence and rebellion to constituted law, there were many peaceful communities where 'bad men' were novelties."—Columnist comment.

All of us have worries and though they appear . . . The worst in the world, there is one thing that's clear . . . Whatever they are, there is somebody who . . . Is worried and wondering what he can do . . . With problems much worse, of a different kind . . . And here is a new one that's just come to mind.

Suppose you were sheriff, somewhere in the West . . . And a fast-drawing outlaw, with hair on his chest . . . And as vicious and mad as a snake-bitten skunk . . . Stormed out of the swinging doors, staggering drunk . . . Would you shoot him on sight, or permit him to "draw" . . . And get shot in the pants while upholding the law?

It happens each day and it happens each night * . . . For there's always some hombre just spoiling to fight . . . And you ought to be thankful, or grateful, at least . . . That you live in your "little gray home in the East."

Token Integration Hit As Illusion by Rep. Davis

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Token integration is not going to satisfy "either the NAACP, the carpetbagger integrationists or the sociologist-minded Supreme Court," Rep. Davis said Monday.

"The fact is," said the Stone Mountain congressman, "we will ultimately have mass integration or no integration. There is no such thing as a middle ground in this problem."

Davis made his comment, he said, in view of the opinion being advanced in some quarters that Southerners can accept token integration in a few schools and continue to operate the great majority on a segregated basis.

SAID SERIOUS MISTAKE

"This is a serious mistake," Davis declared.

The people in some North Carolina cities two years ago thought they could solve the problem by accepting token integration, Davis said.

"They admitted a few Negroes to a few schools in that belief. Now that the Negroes have placed their foot in the door in North Carolina, NAACP officials are planning to seek mass integration."

The Georgian also quoted a speech by an NAACP leader in Portsmouth, Va., urging Negro children in Virginia to apply for transfer to white schools "by the hundreds."

"The theory of saving our schools by accepting token integration is a defective illusion," the Georgian declared. "Once let the Atlanta schools become integrated, the sordid situation will exist there which now prevails in Washington with its 75 per cent colored school population and 53 per cent over-all colored population, and in Newark, N.J., which is rapidly becoming predominantly colored."

"In these situations all the white people who can move out do so because the situation becomes intolerable."

Although voicing respect for the personal integrity of Judge Hooper who recently ruled in Federal District Court that segregated schools in Atlanta are illegal, Davis sharply criticized the ruling.

CRITICIZES PROCEEDINGS

The entire proceedings in Judge Hooper's hearings, Davis said, "seemed to me to indicate a predetermined conclusion and a determination not to change that conclusion."

Davis said some things have to get worse before they can get better, but "there is one ray of light shining from this (Atlanta) school case and this is it: the problem has now come so close to home that everyone is going to have concern himself with it and do something about it."

Mental Wards Burn

BASINGSTOKE, England (AP)—Fire swept three wards of a mental hospital here Monday. Doctors and nurses guided patients to safety. Firemen brought the blaze under control in two hours.

'Swapping the Goat' Boosts State Kiwanis

By HUNTER JAMES

The most civic-minded folks, the boys at the Kiwanis Club in Cumming are perfectly willing to go along with a good joke, particularly when it serves a useful purpose.

But when a group of Atlanta men brought a goat into their meeting hall that was carrying things a little too far.

"Get that goat out of here," someone said.

The joke didn't end there.

The Atlantans — members of the Sandy Springs Kiwanis Club —said they were awful sorry about it, but the goat had to stay somewhere and for the time being he might as well stay in Cumming.

UNWANTED

The boys at Cumming didn't want him. Sandy Springs Kiwanians didn't want him either, and in getting rid of him they were just participating in a little Kiwanis joke.

They didn't start the joke. In fact, they didn't feel so good about it themselves when the goat was first turned over to their club.

Folks at the Kiwanis Club in Griffin started it all back in January.

And naturally, in the civic spirit, there was a useful purpose behind it. Swapping the goat would be a good way to promote more inter-club meetings of Georgia Kiwanians.

They called the goat "Inter-Club Billy" and started him on his way. Since then, "Inter-Club Billy" has been over half of Georgia.

WORKING WELL

So far, the goat-swapping idea is working pretty well.

The boys at Cumming found that out.

They were the 16th club to have him in their possession since Inter-Club Billy started his trip.

He came to Atlanta for the first time last week. Sandy Springs Kiwanians got him from Atlanta's Downtown Kiwanis Club. The Downtown Club got him from the Smyrna Club.

Bob McFarland is chairman of inter-club relations for the Downtown Club, and it didn't take him long to get rid of the goat.

Tech Awards Master's Degree To a Woman

Mrs. Thera H. Richter of Hapeville is the first woman to receive a master's degree from Georgia Tech.

Mrs. Richter

She has been awarded the degree of Master of City Planning. She is also the first woman candidate for a city planner degree.

Her husband, Marvin O. Richter, holds a bachelor of electrical engineering degree and a master of science degree from Georgia Tech.

Mrs. Richter is presently principal planner of the DeKalb planning department in Decatur. She was graduated from Alabama College with a B.S. in mathematics, and was awarded a bachelor of business administration from Georgia State College. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Holland, Rte. 2, Elkmont, Ala.

Dodd To Again Captain Drive For Retarded

Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Dodd will serve for the fourth consecutive years as captain of the "Fund Drive Squad" for the Atlanta chapter of the Georgia Association for Retarded Children.

Co-chairman of the 1959 campaign, officially scheduled for Sept. 15-30, will be Ray Graves, an assistant coach at Tech.

The campaign will be kicked off Sept. 12 at Grant Field with an intrasquad football game between "White" and "Blue" teams composed of 1959 Georgia Tech varsity players. Proceeds of the pre-season game, which was inaugurated last year, will go to the retarded children's fund.

"It's vital that the $100,000 goal be met this year," said Dodd, "in order to expand the educational facilities at Fairhaven School and to establish a much-needed diagnostic clinic for Georgia's retarded children."

Ticket sales for Tech's preview football game this fall will be handled by the Civitan Council of Metropolitan Atlanta.

Decatur Woman Is Awarded Ph.D

Mrs. Jacquelyn Starken Clements of Decatur has been awarded a doctor of philosophy degree in psychology by Indiana University.

Three other Georgia students are among the university's 4,157 graduates for 1959. They are Mrs. Mary Chase McJunkins, Monticello, M.S., education; Louis Pintchuck Jr., Waynesboro, B.S., business; and Joy V. Brown, Winder, bachelor of music education.

Wheel of Fortune

There were more versions of "What's wrong with the Crackers?" than fans at Poncey during the first half of the season which ended Sunday with Atlanta locked in the basement for the first time since the second half of the 1943 campaign.

On paper the club looked like a sure-fire double-A contender after reinforcements were pumped in. On the field the Crackers looked exactly like a last-place outfit.

Outlar

Whatever the reasoning, no one can say the Crackers had a shortage of manpower. From the moment they assembled in Jacksonville they've averaged more than two players for every triumph.

The Sunday success which eliminated Nashville was only the 24th for the Crackers. And it took more than 60 players to achieve this unenviable distinction. In fact, Atlanta had more players on the roster than games in the standings in the drab first half.

Perhaps the Crackers will perk up and become a contender in the second half. The split season erased their miserable first-half performances, and a victory over Chattanooga Monday night would have catapulted the club from 15 games off the pace into first place. There are advantages to this split-season plan provided you're in the second division, particularly if you are clogged in last place.

Regardless of the cause of the Cracker demise, Buddy Bates must take the rap. That's a cardinal rule in baseball. When a manager wins, he gets applause. When a manager loses, he gets the works.

—'Help' Arrived Too Often for Crax

As mentioned in this space previously, it's my contention that all managers are overrated. No manager is as important as his players.

Bates is without a doubt a better manager now than he was in 1957 when he directed the Crackers to their 16th pennant. He undoubtedly improved some last season when the club dipped to third.

Unfortunately, managers are judged solely in the percentages of the standings, and in that department Bates has been a dismal flop this season. The man said himself that he had a better ball club at the outset than in either of his two prior seasons. Maybe he was just talking to bolster interest; maybe he was trying to encourage his rookie-studded crew. I don't know the reason; I do know that Bates made the statement.

Perhaps the Crackers have had too much help. When the Crackers started losing Earl Mann got desperate. He imported players left and right. And some of the players weren't worth a fresh uniform.

Milwaukee brass reached a decision last spring that Atlanta should participate in the Braves' youth movement. Well, it took only a couple of days in Jacksonville to note that some scouts should be dismissed for signing some of the "prospects."

—A Nice Guy Who Finished Last

At an early juncture it was apparent that some of the players would never be old enough to play professional baseball in any league. To the eternal credit of the Milwaukee Braves, they desperately tried to remedy this situation. John McHale, on a visit to Atlanta, said that aid would be forthcoming. And it was. Milwaukee made a solid effort to derrick the Crackers out of last place.

The Crackers had a new team every week, a different line-up every night and the situation got progressively worse. At the end of the first half it was downright terrible. Very few folks came to the park and Mann didn't have to ask where others were.

Actually, the Crackers, first half of 1959, shouldn't be called a team. For various reasons they never had nine guys together long enough to form a team.

There were recurring reports that several of the players had been around long enough to disapprove of the manner in which the club was handled. There is no attempt here to exonerate or indict Bates. I thought he was unjustly abused last year when the Crackers were in pennant contention, but I have never accused Bates of being a great manager. I think that he is a good manager. I agree with each and everyone of his critics when they say that he is colorless; he's the type of guy who has to be in first place to be popular.

Perhaps Bates' greatest weakness is mishandling personnel, as several players have charged over a three-year span. I'll agree that Bates mishandles his men. He's too damned nice to them. It's often very difficult for a real gentleman to be a real good baseball manager.

HERE'RE TWO OF THE REASONS HANEY MAY NOT RETURN IN '60

Braves' Boss, Now a Banker, With Grandsons Fred (L) and Charles Franklin in Los Angeles

Haney Hints Strongly That He Will Retire

Longs to Stay With Family

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves Monday indicated strongly that this might be his last year as a major league pilot.

"If at the end of this season I feel as I do now this may be my last season," Haney said.

The disclosure came at a luncheon at which it was announced that Haney had accepted a position as vice president of a newly organized bank in the San Fernando Valley.

"The one thing uppermost in my mind is to win the pennant for Milwaukee. We have a tough fight ahead. After that I'll make a decision," Haney continued.

"If I stay in baseball I will stay with Milwaukee. I am and have been very happy in Milwaukee.

"But when I got in town this morning (Los Angeles is Haney's home town), I thought what's the use to be away from home and to be away from those near and dear to you.

"When three or four little guys (his grandchildren) fall on your neck and you visit your mother who is 92 and your brothers you think what's the use being 2,000 miles away from all this," Haney said in very serious tones.

Braves' Head Bank Veep

"What I said just came from the heart."

Haney said he had not discussed his statement or any retirement plans with the Milwaukee front office. The team is here for an important series with Los Angeles.

Haney is 62 and has won two National League pennants and one World Series in his three previous years with the Braves.

Haney said he was meeting most of his banking associates for the first time. He joked that as a vice president he rated ahead of his rival in baseball, Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees, who is a member of the board of directors of a Glendale bank.

Well known board members of the bank Haney is joining are Sheriff Pete Pitchess, Edgar Bergen, singer Gordon MacRae, Art Linkletter and ex-baseballer Chuck Connors, now a television star.

The popular Haney, who has had a long and varied career in 42 years in baseball, said he has been looking for an excuse and a solid business to stay in Los Angeles.

Dobbek Home Run Nips Crax In 11

Two-Out Blast Hands Looks 3-2 Win In 2nd Half Opener

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Constitution Sports Writer

CHATTANOOGA—Atlanta's planned evacuation of the Southern Assn. cellar was indefinitely delayed when Dan Dobbek slammed the basement door with a two-out, 11th inning home run at Engel Stadium Monday night.

Dobbek's solo blast over the right-field fence, his 10th circuit smash of the season, lifted Chattanooga to a 3-2 victory and into a tie for first place as second-half play got underway.

And although it matters little at such an early stage of the race, it left the Crackers where they were when the first half ended—last.

That all-the-way wallop and a reasonable facsimile by ex-Cracker Roy Hawes to give the Lookouts a 2-1 lead in the seventh inning ruined an otherwise almost flawless mound performance by Ray Rippelmeyer.

The ace of skipper Buddy Bates' staff soaked up his second defeat against four triumphs even though he limited Johnny Marion's home-standers to eight hits, struck out six and didn't walk a batter.

Going the route for the fifth time in six starts, the elongated right-hander even had to furnish his own stick power to gain a last-ditch stalemate.

For it was Rippelmeyer's almost 400-foot double in the ninth, for his second hit, that promoted a 2-2 knot at the end of the regulation number of innnings.

Tigers Rout Wilhelm In 6-4 Bout

Detroit 1½ Games Out of First Now

BALTIMORE (AP)—The surging Detroit Tigers ended Hoyt Wilhelm's nine-game winning streak Monday night, battering the Baltimore pitcher from the mound in the seventh inning on their way to a 6-4 victory over the Orioles.

Baltimore almost took Wilhelm off the hook by scoring three runs in the eighth to chase Ray Narleski and pull within 5-4. But reliever Dave Sisler stopped the rally. The Tigers added an unearned run in the ninth.

The victory moved Detroit to within 1½ games of first place. After a dismal 2-15 start, the Tigers have run up a 30-12 record under their new manager, Jimmy Dykes.

ERSKINE QUITS BASEBALL 28 DAYS FROM 10 YEARS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carl Erskine, onetime Dodger pitching ace who threw two no-hit games and set a World Series strikeout record, is retiring from baseball.

Loe Angeles general manager Buzzie Bavasi said the 32-year-old pitcher told him Monday he's convinced he "can't give 100 per cent any more."

"I feel badly about it," Bavasi said, "because he has only 28 days to go before he will become a 10-year man under the pension plan.

"But he said he'd just be fooling himself by staying with the club."

Erskine said he has an opportunity to go into a summer camp business at Camp Bauman in New York at the end of August.

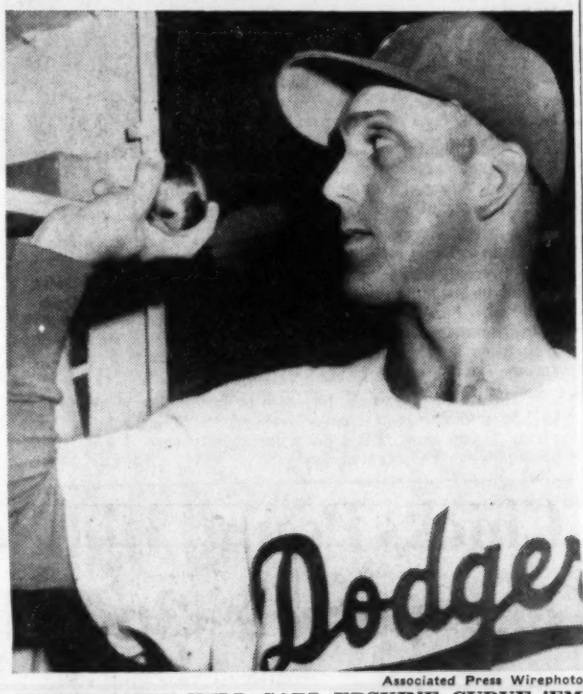

Until then he will remain in Los Angeles, probably working as a coach with a Dodger rookie club composed of high school graduates and junior college players.

Erskine won 122 games and lost 78 during his major league career. His earned-run average was 3.94.

He pitched his first no-hitter against Chicago in 1952 and his second in 1956 against the old New York Giants. In 1953 he set a World Series record by striking out 14 New York Yankees in one game.

Bavasi said he probably will call a pitcher up from the Dodger farm system within several days to replace Erskine.

This season Erskine has pitched 23⅓ innings, losing three games and winning none.

HANSON BEATS SUGGS IN OPEN

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., and Fargo, N.D., won her first tournament in more than a year with a sudden death victory over Louise Suggs, Atlanta, Ga., Monday in the first extra hole of the American Women's Open.

Miss Hanson dropped a 4-foot birdie putt for a 4 on the first hole after both she and Miss Suggs had finished the 72 holes tied with 297s.

Beverly started the day's play with a two-stroke edge over Miss Suggs. But the latter sank a great chip shot on the 17th hole and Miss Hanson needed pressure putts of 10 and 4 feet on the last two holes to get the tie.

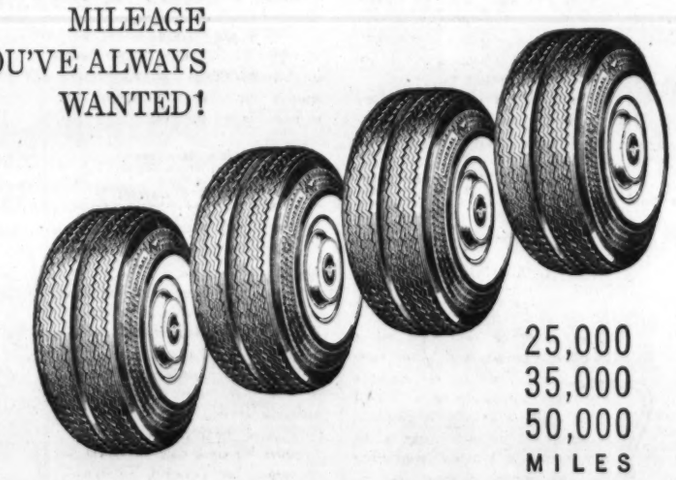

On the extra hole, before Miss Hanson sank her winning putt, Miss Suggs just missed a birdie of her own when her 12-footer curled off to the left.

Miss Suggs had a 4-under-women's par 72 over Brookview's 6,397-yard course and Miss Hanson stroked a 74.

Miss Hanson's victory got her $1,247.35, Miss Suggs collected $961.40 and third place was good for $760 for Miss Wright.

Sixth Win in Row Grabs Tribe Lead

Bell Handcuffs Red Sox, With Three Hitter, 5-1

BOSTON (AP)—Cleveland edged .002 ahead of idle Chicago into the American League lead Monday night on Minnie Minoso's three-run homer which produced a 5-1 victory over Boston.

The tie - breaking blow in the fourth inning off loser Bill Monbouquette brought Minoso's two-day runs batted in total to 12 and extended the Indians' winning streak to six.

Cleveland has a .571 percentage to Chicago's .569.

After driving across nine runs Sunday, against Washington — including two homers — Minoso drilled a 0-2 pitch into the left screen after Vic Power had singled and Rocky Colavito walked.

Minoso raised his batting average eight points to .306.

The other Indian runs came on solo homers by Jim Baxes in the third and Woody Held in the seventh.

ALEX 'TURNS UP NOSE' AT KRAMER'S OFFER

NEW YORK (AP)—Promoter Jack Kramer said Monday Alex Olmedo, Peruvian star of the U.S. Davis Cup team, had "turned up his nose" at a $50,000-to-$100,000 offer to join the pro tennis tour in November.

Alex Olmedo

"Somebody else has Olmedo's ear and he figures he's going to sign for $150,000—but not with me," the Los Angeles tennis impresario said. "I've made my offer. He may find himself crawling back to us later on."

Kramer said he had discussed a possible professional career with the sensational young Peruvian before the latter left for England to prepare for next week's Wimbledon Championship.

"I merely was feeling him out," Kramer said. "I realized he couldn't make a decision without losing his amateur status. I told him I would give him $50,000 if he never won another match this year as an amateur. I said I would up it to $80,000 if he won the Wimbledon and $100,000 if he added the U.S. title at Forest Hills and the Davis Cup.

"He wasn't impressed. He more or less indicated to me that he had a better offer from elsewhere, but I don't know from whom. I only know that I don't particularly care. I was buying him mainly on his potential, anyhow."

AISA Local Choice In East Point Swim

Coral Gables, Miami Shores Head Out-of-Town Entries

By FRANK RAMOS

The two-day East Point swim meet, featuring some of the South's finest swimmers, gets under way with preliminary contests beginning at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the East Point Municipal Pool.

The Atlanta Independent Swimmers Association figures to be the top local entry while Coral Gables Swim Club, Miami Shores Country Club and Lakeside Club of Louisville are rated as the best of out of town entries.

One of the top races of the meet is scheduled for 2:00 p.m. when Shirley Stobbs of Miami Shores and Gayle Duganne, presently unattached, battle in the 880 freestyle.

Stobbs last year was ranked by the National AAU as seventh in the butterfly in the world and eighth in the freestyle.

Pacing the local entries will be Bill Cass and Harrison Merrill. Cass will be swimming in the senior division and will represent the Indianapolis Athletic Club, while Merrill will be swimming in the 15-16 age group.

The classifications have been divided into senior, 15-16, 13-14, 11-12, and 10 and under.

In the 10 and under bracket both the Coral Gables entry and and Orange County Swim Club are expected to have outstanding relay teams.

Billy Utley of St. Petersburg winner of three events in the 11-12 group last year will be competing in the 13-14 classification today.

Memphis defeated Mobile, 5-1, Monday night before 735 fans in the opening game of the second half of the Southern Assn. season.

New Orleans defeated Shreveport, 7-6.

The Chicks pounded Don Schaeffer for nine of their hits and all their runs as they handed the Mobilians their sixth defeat in their last seven games.

Mobile got 10 hits off Bill Prout, but the young lefty was tough with men on the bases.

The Pelicans won on a single run in the bottom of the ninth after Shreveport had tied it with two in the top half of the inning.

New Orleans had jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first two innings, but the Sports managed to tie it by the fifth, then fell behind again.

Don Bradley took credit for the win, while Chuck Spicer, who came on in the sixth, was charged with the loss.

Barons Needed Cracker Help

CHATTANOOGA — "Birmingham never would have won that blankety-blank pennant Sunday if Atlanta hadn't beaten Nashville and won it for 'em."

Red Marion

That's how Chattanooga pilot Johnny (Red) Marion, whose Lookouts finally bowed to Birmingham's first half Southern Assn. champs in 11 innings, 5-4, feels about it.

"Those Barons were tight as the Devil under the pressure until they posted that 4-2 Atlanta-Nashville score on the board," he insisted. "We were leading 4-0 until then.

"I'll guarantee you if Nashville had beat Atlanta that we'd have beaten the Barons if I had to use every pitcher on the staff.

"I had big Jim Kaat (Southern strike out leader) ready and he'd have whiffed a few of them; I'll betcha that."

This only pointed out a pattern the Crackers followed all night as Chattanooga starter Rudy Hernandez and reliefer Ward Wilson, both right-handers, made them roll over and play dead when clutch situations arose.

The Crackers had men on base in all innings except the second and 11th. And they socked 12 safe blows, including two each by Talbot, Rippelmeyer, Lindbeck, Shearer and George Holder. But with men in scoring positions, Hernandez and Ward said "no," and the Crackers obeyed.

Only innings in which they made really threatening gestures were the fourth, sixth and ninth. And in the fourth and sixth they left three runners stranded.

Lindbeck's opening double and successive singles by Shearer and Holder netted the Crackers a 1-0 lead in the sixth, but they fell short of kayoing Hernandez—of having the big inning.

Hernandez led off the Lookout sixth by slapping a single to center, and Vern Morgan squared the issue at 1-1 with a booming double off the right-center boards.

Hawes, sold "up the river" to Wichita by Atlanta last year, gained a measure of revenge by putting the Looks in front with his sixth homer in the seventh.

And but for Rippelmeyer's own bat, Hawes would have settled the thing instead of leaving it to Dobbek in overtime.

The victory was the Lookouts' fifth against two defeats against Atlanta, their seventh victory against four defeats and two ties in 13 overtime battles.

Atlanta, 1-2-1 in overtime wrangles, has now dropped 11 one-run decisions, including eight of the last nine.

Wilson, who limited the Crackers to one run and four hits in a previous rescue job, claimed the victory and is now 4-2. The clothes model from Tampa came in to get all three outs in the ninth, leaving Talbot on third, then permitted only one base runner from there on. That was Ron Liptak, who walked with two out in the 10th.

Lefty Dale Hendrickson (1-2) has been delegated to fire for Atlanta in the second of the four-game series Tuesday night. Lookout right-hander Boyd Linker (2-1) will cut loose the first pitch at 7:30 (Atlanta time).

Shaffer Horses Among the First At Chastain

The first of an expected 370 entries for the 16th Annual Greater Atlanta Horse Show started pouring into Atlanta Monday, preparing for the opening at Chastain Memorial Park Wednesday.

Top entries among the early arrivals included horses from the Candy Shaffer Farms of South Miami, Fla. Most of the entries, representing 60 cities and 12 states, will arrive Tuesday and early Wednesday morning.

The horse show is sponsored by the Greater Atlanta Mounted Charities, Inc.

Kennedy, Hixon Join Brown Coaching Staff

Atlanta city schools athletic director Sid Scarborough juggled his coaching lineup Monday and it came out in this order:

Brown High School added football assistants Crawford Kennedy, a recent graduate of the University of Georgia, and Frank Hixon, late of Jacksonville (Ala.) State Teachers and brother of Gainesville athletic director Graham Hixon.

Walter George gained former Brown High and Oglethorpe University stickout Pat Stephens as an assistant in basketball and football.

O'Keefe tapped Elton Powers, former coach at Mt. Zion, as football assistant.

In head coaching changes, Lloyd Kimmel switched from Smith High School to East Atlanta, and Sylvan brought up assistant coach Jack Wood to the head coaching post, vacated when Jimmy Green was named principal at Walter George.

East Atlanta, which will play only a "B" team schedule this first season of football, added former Smith assistants Shirley Watkins and Phil Secrist and ex-Brown aide Franklin Brooks, the stalwart Georgia Teacher.

Lawrence Graves was added at Sylvan; Fulton was allotted ex-Georgian Mike Anderson and James Trotter, and Smith got another former Oglethorpe basketballer, Billy Carter, and Georgia grad Harold Davis.

WHEN FISH CHANGE, WHY DOESN'T FISHERMAN FOLLOW?

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

A river of outdoor news, promotions, advertising and trivia flows continuously across my desk. All is scanned, some gets read, most is filed in the wastebasket.

Charlie Elliott

Occasionally something in the flow of outdoor miscellany shines like a bright fishing spoon in clear water, and is put aside for re-reading and reflection. Such was an item from Homer Circle, from up Dowagiac, Mich., way. It asked the question—"Fish Change—Why Not Fishermen?"

That is one of those items that sets a guy's mental gears into a series of convolutions, which usually cartwheel him right back to where he started. But it is certainly true that fish often change their feeding grounds and even their habits—sometimes suddenly and at other times over a longer period. That is one of nature's answers to her most important project for all species—the business of survival.

Most of the time, when waters which have been producing good strings of fish suddenly become barren, most of us are inclined to blame it on the weather, phase of the moon, water temperatures and a dozen other formulas which affect fishing—or so we have been told. We seldom pause to consider that there might be some specific reason why the fish evacuated, and that they are still probably somewhere in the neighborhood, if we can find them.

Not long ago in a southern lake, I located a good school of bass. The spot was as hot as a fire popper, exploding with activity, and every time we'd toss in a lure, something would simply try to knock it off the end of the line. We fished until after dark, kept a few of the larger bass, put the others back, and hurried to the place the next morning, loaded with lures and anticipation.

We worked the spot over thoroughly for two hours, without having so much as a bream nibble, and my boat mate moaned, "I know we didn't catch 'em all out, because we put back more than we strung."

"Maybe the education we gave them in tackle sort of spread to the rest of the school," I suggested.

Our answer came a little later in the morning when the water began to splash around us, and one of the critters came close enough for identification as a big gar. A school of long-noses had invaded the point to feed and the bass had simply and wisely moved to a new address.

I am convinced that when a certain type of lure is dragged through the water often enough, the fish eventually recognize it as an artificial device and pass it up for more succulent fare. I was on a Florida river once with a group of fellows who wouldn't try anything but large plugs. They'd dragged out some lunkers with the outsized tackle, and because the action was slow, figured they'd about cleaned out the stream. Then some Einstein-Walton came up with the bright thought that maybe the bass were educated in big hardware, and might be caught off guard with smaller artificials. He dug out his small bream rod, a few tiny sinking flies and slipped off alone to try some of the deeper banks. He swears he never got as much explosive action in his life, and the fish be brought to camp had us all scrambling for the tiniest tackle in our kits.

So when the fish go on a hunger strike, here's what Homer Circle suggests: Try new lures, in deeper water; fish twice as many lakes (or locations) as you usually do; cast into spots where few others think of trying; use smaller lures or larger lures; change colors often; if you normally retrieve fast, try it slow; if you usually fish all day, try a few rounds at night. Change your fishing habits, and you might get to be as smart as the fish!"

I go along with everything he says, with the exception of that last statement. I have yet to meet up with any fisherman as smart as a fish.

Fish Contest at Clark Hill

Special to The Constitution

APPLING — Three fish worth $3,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds will be tagged and released in Clark Hill Reservoir this weekend for a fishing contest sponsored by the Columbia County Game and Fish Club.

It's all part of a fishing rodeo June 18, 19 and 20, designed to raise funds for the club.

The prize fish will be released by a special committee composed of state Game and Fish Commission Director Fulton Lovell, Columbia County Sheriff H. O. Morris, Augusta newsman Jimmy Howle, outdoor writer Bill Allen of Young Harris, and three club officials.

The fish—one bass, one bream and one catfish—will be released in Clark Hill between June 12 and June 16.

A fourth one—a crappie—will be worth $5,000 in building materials and labor for a house.

There will also be four prizes in each of the fourth divisions for biggest fish caught.

The committee releasing the fish will sign affidavits to the effect that the fish with the big bounty on their fins are in good health, bearing tags and were released during the specified time.

The contest opens on June 18 and closes at 8 p.m. June 20.

Tickets are $3 per individual or $5 per family. Price of ticket includes a barbecue dinner and a square dance on June 20.

THE DIXIE'S GETTING READY FOR A PARTY ON LAKE LANIER
Twenty-Six Ton Vessel Is Largest Ever On Georgia Inland Waters

Kingsized Dixie Floats on Lanier

Excursion Boat Believed Largest Ever in Georgia

The biggest hunk of boat ever to reach Georgia's impounded waters is tied up at Lake Lanier getting ready for a party.

It's the Dixie, a 56-foot vessel brought to Georgia by the Lanier Charter Boat Company.

Currently, final touches are being put on the boat before it goes into operation as a charter boat for sight-seeing and private parties.

The Dixie has a gross tonnage of 29 tons and net tonnage of 26 tons. It is powered by twin 160-hp. Chris-Craft engines.

Atlantan Jimmy Kent, president of the company, bought the boat—then an almost empty hull—in Miami. He had it rebuilt at the Flagler Yacht Basin, then brought it under its own power up the Intracoastal Waterway to Savannah.

From there it was brought by tractor-trailer to Lake Lanier. It was launched at Flowery Branch—a costly operation which saw the trailer go completely underwater.

Kent said state records show it is the largest boat ever hauled over the highways of Georgia. It required a police escort the entire route.

We're Headed For Outdoors Twice a Week

Everybody's headed for the great outdoors and the Constitution sports pasges are right beside them.

You'll find the All Outdoors page twice weekly now—Tuesdays and Fridays—in the Constitution sports sections.

Constitution columnist Charles Elliott and outdoor writer Jim Carson now cover these fronts for twice weekly outdoor pages.

Trout at Winfield

Trout fishing at Lake Winfield Scott has been icing on the cake this spring for early-season vacationers at the north Georgia resort.

The 18-acre lake was stocked with rainbow and brook trout last summer and again this spring.

REPORT FROM OUTDOORS

Who's the Most Popular Deer? Bob Carnes Thinks Its Darling

By JIM CARSON

It's doubtful that even Bambi enjoyed more prominence or popularity the past year than did Darling, the orphaned fawn Georgia ranger Bob Carnes found last June.

If you are not acquainted with Darling, a charming young deer about to celebrate her first birthday, here's a bit of her background.

Jim Carson

Carnes found the fawn one day last June on the Lake Burton Management Area he patrols. A dead doe nearby was mute evidence to the orphaned baby.

He took the fawn home that night.

Bob's three-year-old daughter, Robin, tagged the animal Darling. And the name fit perfectly.

The other morning as Bob and I sat at a trout stream checking station awaiting daylight, Bob reminded me it was just a week until Darling's first birthday.

Since that day last fall when we wrote a story about Darling, warning deer hunters to take extra precautions with the friendly little pet, hundreds have made the trip to Carnes' mountainside home in hopes that Darling would be nearby.

Darling's been petted and photographed countless times by children and adults.

Though Bob won't be able to count Darling as an income tax deduction, she has sent his food bill up steadily.

Romping around the mountains has whetted the little lady's appetite for bananas, apples, toast, dog food, corn, raw Irish potatoes, lettuce and milk.

Then just to prove she's an animal, Darling still eats browse, dandelions and the stems from laurel leaves.

But to prove she's a pet and not a wild animal, she still comes in the house, jumps in the middle of the bed and takes a nap. And to further make plain her gentle nature, she'll sleep in the yard with a couple of Bob's beagles stretched out beside her, using her for a pillow.

Yet the forest is her backyard, and she gallops away every evening about sundown and doesn't come back until morning.

Once this spring Bob was driving through the management area at night and saw Darling with two other does, crossing the road near one of the feed patches the Game Commission plants. She was easily identified. She's wearing a leather dog collar bearing Carnes' name and address.

Arthur Wikle of Clarkesville recently told Carnes of seeing the collar-wearing doe on state highway 197, some eight or nine miles form Bob's home.

Two state game biologists, working along Moccasin Creek in the Burton area, got the surprise of their lives one day last fall when Darling walked up to them in the forest.

DARLING
. . . She's a Year Old

She's quite a pet and as much a member of Carnes' family as his beagle dogs, his daughter's bullfrogs—Leaper and Jumper—and their pony, Pal.

But who ever heard of a birthday party for a whitetail deer?

FIVE RACES SET

Forty Sailboats Enter Lanier Invitational

There'll be at least 40 sailboats in the lineup this weekend for the Lake Lanier Sailing Club's first annoual Carling Invitational regatta on Lanier.

Club Commodore Vernon Pickering Monday said 40 entries already have been received though the sailing races are a week away.

The event—first major invitational on Georgia's newest and biggest lake—is open to boats in the thistle, snipe and Y-flyer classes.

In addition to Atlanta area registrations, skippers have filed entries from Savannah, Columbus and Macon; Memphis, Tenn.; Fairhope, Ala.; Decatur, Ala.; Charleston, S.C.; St. Petersburg, Fla., and Miami.

Five races are planned—three on Saturday and two Sunday.

They will be held on the Flowery Branch race course, that same area of Lake Lanier used by the District Four snipe sailors the past weekend.

A second 90-foot dock has been added to the club's facilities to aid in accommodating participants, Pickering said.

The recently organized Lake Lanier Sailing Club is temporarily headquartered at Holiday on Lake Lanier Marina.

Columbus Man To Head Snipes

The Rev. Howard Welch of Columbus has been named governor of District Four Snipe International Racing Assn.

His appointment to the post was announced Sunday afternoon following the district sailing championships at Lake Lanier.

Other officers elected: vice governor, Gordon Randall, Tullahoma, Tenn.; rear governor, Bruce Collier, West Palm Beach, Fla.; and secretary, Mrs. Sam Norwood, Atlanta.

Liz Taylor Receives Script for Cleopatra

By SHEILAH GRAHAM
North American Newspaper Alliance

HOLLYWOOD—Elizabeth Taylor as Cleopatra? Walter Wanger sent the script to Liz in London last week. If her answer is "yes," she will make the movie after returning to Hollywood when Eddie Fisher's California divorce decree is final.

Arlene Dahl, in the 20th Century-Fox Cafe, told me she is taking off for the Carlsbad Caverns for her picture with Clifton Webb, "Journey to the Center of the Earth." "You may never see me again," said Arlene, darkly. "I'll go to China and dig my way up." . . . Webb, adorned with a rather large mustache grown for his role of scientist, joined us. "Can you eat through the mustache?" I asked. "I can't do anything through it," said Clifton gloomily, adding, "and it tickles."

Sheilah

Even though Kay Kendall is back to work in "Once More With Feeling," she is still a very sick girl. She has collapsed thrice during the filming of the movie, and also just before it started. Kay is a wonderful girl; let's hope she will soon be completely well.

Sheilah Graham is substituting for Paul Jones, Constitution television editor, who is on vacation.

Maurice Chevalier is booked solid until 1962. This grand old Frenchman hits 71 in September! . . . Eve Arden is costarred with Jimmy Stewart and Lee Remick in "Anatomy of a Murder. But her husband, Brooks West, who is featured, ended up with more dialogue. . . .

Well, whaddya know! A movie star is going to London—and he won't appear at the Palladium. Donald O'Connor will merely vacation there.

Maureen O'Sullivan, now in London with husband John Farrow, where he's preparing his next film, "Son of Man," returns to Hollywood in August with two of their children. She will find a house and they'll live here permanently after Farrow finishes "Son." His latest movie, "John Paul Jones," will be screened on the plane carrier U.S.S. Bennington, en route from San Diego to San Pedro, June 25.

Frank Sinatra swears he'll take a two-month vacation in Japan and Hong Kong when he completes his current "Never So Few" at Metro. Frankieboy doing nothing except sight-seeing for two months is hard to imagine.

Steve McQueen was on his way to the Santa Barbara auto races when he received word on his car phone that Mrs. Mac was on her way to the hospital to greet the stork. Steve raced back to Hollywood faster than he ever raced on the track.

Chuck Connors was offered a free trip to Hawaii, in return for some photographic publicity layouts. "I'm too tired," said Chuck, who really rates a rest. So, he went to Mexico City—and bumped into a convention from Milwaukee with each conventioner wanting his autograph!

Diana Lynn is in Hawaii with her husband, Mortimer Hall, and glad to be there. The week before she left, Diana stepped on a nail and had to be given antitetanic shots, her auto was wrecked, and she "almost drowned" in a tank for an "Adventure in Paradise" TV segment.

Jack Lord is the top choice of Leonard Bernstein to co-star with Marlon Brando in the movie version of the Broadway musical, "West Side Story." Brando will play the leader of one gang, Lord the leader of the other, in this modernized version of "Romeo and Juliet."

Nancy Gates, married to business manager Bill Hayes (he handles the affairs of such stars as Hugh O'Brian, Dennis Weaver, Lloyd Nolan, Clint Walker, Jeff Hunter), learned something from him. Offered her choice of salary or a percentage in a Randolph Scott movie, she took the latter, because every Randy Scott film has made money.

ANNA'S BACK—Wide-eyed songstress Anna Maria Alberghetti, recently in the news with her on-again, off-again romance with composer-arranger Buddy Bregman, will make her second appearance of the season on the Garry Moore Show Tuesday (Channel 5 at 10 p.m.).

Trans-Ocean TV Film Is Watched in London

By JACK GOULD
(Copyright, 1959, by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—A film of the first television pictures to be sent across the Atlantic on the international telephone cable was seen privately today. The images were transmitted last March in a service that is scheduled to be opened formally Thursday between London and North America.

The film showed two automobiles and then an unidentified motorcycle driver rounding a curve in England. At its best, particularly in the closest view of the cyclist, the quality of the film was very nearly that of the 16 mm. kinescope film. Since last March such a level of definition reportedly has been obtained with infinitely greater consistency.

Other portions of the film made in March were reminiscent of the early facsimile reproduction of still photographs. There was considerable streaking and flaring. But even so, the clarity often was technically remarkable in light of the difficulties inherent in putting a film on a telephone circuit.

The British Broadcasting Corp. will unveil its transoceanic system Thursday when it transmits over the cable one minute of film showing the departure of Queen Elizabeth from London Airport.

In Ottawa, the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. said that the film should be seen in Canada and the United States approximately 2 hours and 15 minutes after the Queen was photographed in Britain.

The program will originate from the Toronto and Montreal studios of the CBC and will be seen in the United States over NBC.

According to the CBC, viewers in Great Britain are scheduled to see—by cable—a one-minute film of the Queen's arrival at St. John's, Newfoundland.

The TV cable system is based on use of 16 millimeter film. In a nutshell, the BBC method calls for slowing the film at the transmission end and speeding it up again at the receiving end.

Monday night it was freely predicted that a regular exchange of TV newsreel programs between North America and Britain and Europe might be commonplace by next winter. A second trans-Atlantic telephone cable is scheduled to go into service in the fall; this facility presumably would lessen the load of telephone traffic on the present cable and allow the transmission of a greater volume of TV film.

Tell The Truth Adds Imported Dash

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BET—No selection Tuesday.

8:30-9 (Ch. 5)—Truthfully, To Tell the Truth is having panel problems. This is Polly Bergen's last week—she's off for a summer in Europe in a few days—and it looks like Jayne Meadows will sit in for a month or so. And Don Ameche, who's been pinch-paneling for Ralph Bellamy, seems set in his chair for a while. Kitty Carlisle and Tom Poston remain the old stand-bys. Tonight, they'll be asked to separate the wheat from the liars among three groups, including one trio of gals with imported dash.

8:30-9 (Ch. 2)—Jimmie Rodgers has Johnny Puleo as his guest tonight, and that's the long and short of The Jimmie Rodgers Show. Things will open with a calm, non-socko rendition of Jimmie's new record, "Ring-a-Ling-a-Lario," but the big moment should be a version of "Personality." In this one, Jimmie, Puleo and his Harmonica Rascals, the chorus and the band will have help from the audience in a rousing number. There's a medley of songs about magic—"Witch Doctor," "Wizard," "Black Magic" and such—with some camera trickery, and solos by Connie Francis, Jimmie and the harmonica group.

9:30-10 (Ch. 11)—Naked City has one of its good stories tonight, but there's not much police work shown. Basically, it's a story of an ex-fighter whose wife raises roses on the fire escape. Big-hearted Johnny wants to send sweet Kathy and her prize rose to a flower show in Baltimore, and, to make the necessary loot, he decides to take one more fight. He should have stood in bed. Harry Guardino is the fighter, with Rocky Graziano as his opponent in this last fight. The dirty work comes in at the gym, with the cops just getting there in time to save our hero.

10-10:30 (Ch. 11)—Warren Stevens, always competent, does another good job tonight, as the man to whom the extraordinary happens on Alcoa Presents. He is minding his own business, on a train in India, when the urge comes over him to kill a nice old man. Turns out there's a reason for his actions, albeit a weird reason. This is not an authentic case history, but it's taken from a story that is common in India and has almost become a legend. Note the actor who plays the Indian village constable—he's Arthur Batanides, who can handle 80 different dialects and is thus Hollywood's busiest character actor.

10-10:30 (Ch. 2)—The David Niven Show is telling a character study of a woman with a lot of character. She's played by Carolyn Jones, and it's a tough part. During the course of "The Portrait," she ages from young to old, and her voice and mannerisms age right along with her face. The title refers to the painting of her which inspires some World War II GIs to find her—and they get a surprise. The story was written for Miss Jones by her husband, Aaron Spelling, who got the idea in Germany just after the war. He saw a painting in an abandoned house and began pondering it. His pondering led to a few notes, which he dug out when his wife asked him to write a play for her.

10-11 (Ch. 5)—The Garry Moore Show tonight is up to its usual easy-going tricks. They start right at the beginning, with an "Alice in Wonderland" opening to the tune of "Getting to Know You." Carol Haney is the Mad Hatter in this extravaganza, with Anna Maria Alberghetti as the White Queen, Morey Amsterdam as the Mock Turtle, Marion Lorne as The Duchess and Garry as—well, be surprised. Miss Haney has a solo dance as a choreographer in a rehearsal hall.

Make More Money

Construction Boom to Offer Plenty of Jobs, Investments

By W. M. KIPLINGER AND STAFF

Kiplinger's prediction at the bottom of the 1958 recession of another boom and more inflation is being proved daily. In this 10th of 12 special articles the world-famous authority shows how you can make more money for yourself and your family by taking advantage of the prosperity that lies ahead.

Twice as many new houses, hospitals, schools and highways.

Also more factories, stores, sewer and water systems.

In short, twice as much construction . . . 20 years from now.

Think of the opportunities this boom will open up.

Opportunities for jobs and careers . . . and investments.

Not just for people who build things, but for many others . . . real estate and insurance agents . . . mortgage and loan companies . . . home appliance manufacturers . . . suppliers of building materials . . . makers of machinery and equipment . . architects . . . draftsmen . . . engineers . title searchers . . and many other lines of work.

ROADS TO SET PACE

Highways will set the pace . . . bigger proportion of total, for roads, streets and highways must expand fast just to keep up. New and bigger equipment to clear the ground and lay the paving. Plus trained operators to run and maintain the big new equipment . . . surveyors, engineers, specialists in new and better materials.

New houses will run a close second in the rate of growth. Today's total of 1.1 million starts each year will expand rapidly . . . .

. . . To 1.5 million a year within the next six or seven years.

. . . To 1.7 million a year in the mid-70s.

. . . To 2 million a year by the late 70s.

It will take that many just to put a roof over the heads of the millions that will be added to the population. Add the upgrading, the fact that more and more people will be able to afford new homes, and you can see the housing boom that is in store for this country.

LOTS OF NEW THINGS

Lots of new things IN the houses, too. More sound control. Carpets instead of hardwood or subflooring. Quick - as - a - flash ovens. Composition flooring that lasts longer and is easier on the feet. Vacuum cleaners, dish and clothes washers that clean with sound. More efficient year-round cooling and heating systems.

Building methods and techniques? Revolutionary changes. Those who are ready for new things and shift to them will prosper. Those who stick to the old practices will fall behind.

PRECUT PARTS TO JUMP

Examples: More of the completely prefabricated new houses. Even bigger strides will be made in precut parts, wall sections, hung doors, roof trusses, many others. The work done on the site will become more and more an assembly job . . . just fitting together parts turned out in mass by factories. Power tools will take over many of the jobs that have required skilled workmanship.

Building trades workers will be hit hard. Skilled workers will find mighty slim pickings in the housing industry of the future. Some in the industry who look ahead hazard the guess that by 1980, or at least in the 80s, up to 90 per cent of the labor force needed today to build houses will instead be employed in factories, turning out the parts that go into a house. And there will even be more houses that are designed to be owner-built . . . do-it-yourself.

Many new materials will be put to use . . . crowd out the old. Plastic for pipes and cabinets. Aluminum both inside and outside. More steel for strength . . . and decoration. New uses for concrete.

OLD MATERIALS TO FADE

Some old materials will fade away slowly. Copper will lose ground to plastics. Lead and zinc to aluminum and other new metals. Wood, as lumber, will lose ground . . . but show up in composition boards.

But a house will still look like a house 20 years hence. Radical changes are coming in the more distant future . . . such as round houses, plastic houses, revolving houses, all-glass houses, sun-powered plants to heat and cool the house and dispose of waste. These will require pioneering . . . and will be high-priced.

Most people will want a "conventional" home. It is one of the biggest purchases a family makes in a lifetime, and most people don't want it to be too unusual. So the big market will continue to be for traditional houses.

Home building will become big business . . . be less of a craft. The old-timer who built a house or two or three at a time will give way to the mass builder with a big organization, especially in the metropolitan areas where most homes are built.

Whole communities will be built at once . . . hundreds or even thousands of houses . . . plus new community and shopping facilities, and industrial and commercial centers as well.

Houses will become a mass product . . . just like automobiles.

The greatest demand will be for skilled management people. Merchandising and selling experts. Lawyers. Plus all the other people needed to run big business. Such services will continue in big demand . . . and this will mean a lot more jobs.

Here are some cautions to ponder before casting your lot with the building industry: After all, many of the skills wanted are also in demand by other industries. The question is whether construction, and housing particularly, will grow at a faster pace or a slower pace than the economy as a whole.

Land is a big problem. The price it will bring is not subject to any control by the builder. This is also true, to a degree, of the availability of land that is suitable for building. Super highways will open more land for construction in the future, but zoning ordinances, minimum lot requirements and the failure of services will be a handicap.

Land will cost so much in some places that it just won't be economical to use it for single-family houses, as in past years. Instead, builders will turn to multi-unit dwellings.

Dependence on government is another, a dependence that exceeds that of any other industry that is basically private. Through its various agencies, the government already holds the key to the supply of mortgage money, size of down payment, the payoff period. Housing requires more outside financing than any other industry.

GOVERNMENT HOLDS WHIP

In still other ways, government holds a whip hand. Cities can hold up housing by delaying needed public services. Building codes are generally behind the times, and the pressures to keep them are still strong. Building permits often are used to delay construction by those who are on the outs with the reigning political power. In short, housing is tied in with politics, with all the dangers inherent in this.

As for factories, many more of them, too, in years to come, with special emphasis on new modern equipment and new production methods . . . to keep up with fast technological progress . . . and to keep costs down. The trend will still be to locate in the suburbs, and stay away from blighted and crowded downtown industrial areas.

Office buildings will be designed and constructed to house more and more automatic equipment . . . electronic brains, computers, electronic tapes, business machines generally.

SCHOOLS TO GROW UP

As for schools and colleges, many of them will be forced to grow up instead of out . . . to add more stories. Not the skyscrapers that already exist in some city colleges . . . but still more up than out. The reason: The high cost of land.

All this means a good demand for outlying real estate . . . the right kind . . . and in areas with ample transportation facilities.

There will be many new jobs and lots of money to be made in the future by those who foresee the trends in construction . . . and figure out ways to steer clear of the dangers.

Continued Wednesday in The Constitution.

Cotton Facing Tougher Foe In New Fibers, Official Says

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Cotton, although still not competitive in price with domestic rayon, faces a far bigger battle with the newer, fast-growing non-cellulose fibers, the president of the National Cotton Council said Monday.

Boswell Stevens of Macon, Miss., told the annual meeting of the Southeastern Cottonseed Crushers' Assn. that non-cellulosic fibers do not compete with cotton in price but on the basis of special qualities, "backed by massive sales promotion."

"To meet this kind of challenge," he said, "we're going to have to step up our efforts to improve cotton quality through rsearch in genetics, plant breeding, chemical finishing and the like. We're also going to have to make a big increase in our cotton sales promotion program, both at home and abroad."

Stevens said the total textile market is going to get a lot bigger and if U.S. cotton can hold its share, the annual consumption level can go up by millions of bales.

Southern Orders 48 GM Diesels

NEW YORK (AP)—Southern Railway System has ordered 48 diesel-electric freight locomotives from General Motors Corp. at a total cost of $12,700,000, Harry A. DeButts, president, said Monday.

First of the new 2,400-horsepower locomotives will be delivered in October.

Southern was the world's first railroad to use diesels for hauling freight and the first major rail system in the United States to become 100 per cent dieselized, DeButts said.

Medium Jet Is Readied By Douglas

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Douglas Aircraft Co. Monday announced plans for a medium-range jet transport to be ready in 1963. It will be called the DC9.

The company has a long-range jet, the DC8, going into service later this year.

The DC9 will carry 68 first-class or 87 tourist-class passengers over short and medium distances at speeds over 500 m.p.h., covering routes where service by larger planes is not economical.

Douglas announced the craft in letters to 40 airlines Monday. It said the plane will be released for production when 75 to 100 orders are obtained, and in anticipation of orders it is going ahead with plans for delivery in 1963.

Only other domestic medium-range jet-type craft is Lockheed's propjet Electra, already in service. The French Caravelle, smaller and slower, was the first in the field.

Atlanta Produce

Trading was fairly good during Sunday and light early Monday on the Atlanta fruit and vegetable market with receipts liberal to heavy over the weekend, according to the A.M.S. Prices were mostly unchanged to some lower for few fruit and vegetables. Bulk cantaloupe and watermelon supplies increased, but were still light; peaches were in much lighter volume. Florida oranges held at 3.00-3.15 per half box carton and grapefruit was steady at 1.75-2.00 best, mostly 2.00. Few Foster pinks were 2.00. Bulk peaches sold 75 cents to 2.50 with most fairly good small to medium size, various varieties jobbing 1.50-2.00 bulk per bushel. Packed stock was about cleaned up. Florida watermelons of various varieties 15 to 32-pound average ranged 75 cents to 1.75 per melon, mostly according to size, with few large higher; Georgia and Florida cantaloups jobbed 2.25-2.50 per bushel and Texas stock 2.50-3.00.

Greens were scarce and mostly cleaned up early; collards sold 1.50-1.75 dozen; mustard and turnip greens 1.75-2.00 bushel. Georgia crate yellow corn ranged 1.75-2.25 and best white at 2.75 per crate with bulk white and yellow, fair quality 25-30 cents. Florida crate yellow corn sold 2.00-2.25 and some fair 1.75-2.00; best Georgia white, large in sacks of five dozen held at 3.25-3.50. Georgia snap beans were mostly 1.50-2.25 and some North Carolina stock for 2.00-2.50; and pole beans included Georgia stock at 2.00-3.00 according to quality and some North Carolina best 4.00; yellow crookneck squash sold at 1.50-2.00 and poorer mostly 75-1.25.

Georgia butterbeans were easier at 3.50-4.50, mostly 3.50-3.75; field peas of various varieties from Georgia, Alabama and Florida were 3.25-3.57 for good purple hulls, fair 2.75-3.00; few green crowders 2.50-3.00 and very few best higher. Georgia cucumbers were 2.00-3.50; Florida mostly 3.00-4.00 and South Carolina offerings 3.00-3.50 and some large 2.00-2.50. North Carolina stock ranged 3.00-4.50. Okra was lower as Georgia and Florida best sold 7.00-8.50, mostly 7.75-8.00 and some large 4.00-5.00; Florida fair to best eggplant ranged 2.25-3.50 and bell peppers medium to large mostly 5.00-5.50; fair and medium were around 3.50, half bushels of fingerhot 2.25-2.50. Georgia and North Carolina cabbage jobbed 1.25-1.40 and few poorer Georgia mostly 1.00.

Investing Your Money

Stock Program Deemed Sound

Question: I am a 29-year-old married man. We have one child. I have a decent amount of insurance, $2,000 in cash and $3,000 invested in stocks. I am buying Socony Mobil Oil, Royal Dutch Petroleum, Royal Dutch Airlines and Niagara Mohawk Power by dollar-averaging. Do you feel that I have outlined a good program for future financial security?

Answer: Yes, you have. It's always a pleasure to hear from people who have the good sense to dollar - average. Putting a fixed amount of money into the same stock or stocks at fixed intervals is the closest thing to an unbeatable method of investing.

It's especially gratifying to answer a letter such as yours—after reading some of the crackpot ideas that come in the mailbag.

Your entire program sounds good and your over-all choice of stocks seems wise. Socony Mobil and Royal Dutch Petroleum are rated as good long-range growth situations. Niagara Mohawk should continue to provide comparative safety, good dividends and gradual growth. KLM has to be looked at as almost a straight income stock, but it does have some promise for the future.

(Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Price Cuts Shave Coppers, Plywoods

NEW YORK (AP)—Weakness in copper and plywood shares featured a stock market which declined on the smallest volume since last August.

Volume slipped to 2,410,000 shares compared with 2,580,000 Friday and was the lightest since last Aug. 29 when 2,260,000 shares were traded.

A cut in the price of copper at the custom smelter level, a further decline in copper scrap and pressure on prices in the futures market and the spot price in London accompanied the drop in share prices of copper-producing companies.

The fall in plywood shares was preceded by news that prices on unsanded fir plywood had dropped sharply and also by news that home building slackened last month, running counter to the seasonal trend.

Trading also was dampened by the fact that the new restrictions on margined accounts came into effect Monday, making traders think twice before making a quick deal. Generally, Wall Streeters saw the market as still in a consolidation phase.

The market had a slightly lower trend at the start then widened its losses as trading interest faded. A slight spurt in late afternoon pulled the general price level above its worst. Rails wiped out some losses and closed mixed. Motors emerged slightly on the upside. Airlines and drugs also were higher on balance.

Oils, utilities, electronics and a wide assortment of issues declined. Steels were mixed.

American Telephone, hitting a new low for the year, was the most active stock. It fell 1½ to 77⅝ on 67,600 shares.

Standard Packaging was active and up 1⅛. Fractional gains were made by Thiokol, Merck, Schering, Sears, Roebuck and International Harvester. Goodyear rose 2⅜.

Staple Prices

NEW YORK, June 15—The Associated Press weighted wholesale price index of 35 commodities Monday advanced to 172.45.

Poultry

GEORGIA LIVE POULTRY

Broilers and fryers: Demand for processed poultry good. Offerings of live birds generally adequate though short at a few points. Sizes irregular with average weights lighter than desired in some instances while remaining heavy in others. Estimated slaughter by Georgia processors Monday 1,406,000 head, 64,000 head less than last Monday. Georgia Poultry Exchange Friday, June 12, offered 407,300 head, sold 218,000 head as follows: 43,200 at 15.5-15.6c, 142,500 at 15.7-15.9c, 33,200 at 16-16.4c.

Buyers' offering prices per pound on birds not priced prior to Monday's movement: At farms 14½-16c 1,082,000 head: 1 per cent at 14½c, 98 per cent at 15c, 1 per cent at 16c.

Prices paid per pound Friday, June 12, and Saturday, June 13, including sales on exchange, broilers and fryers 2¾-3¾ lbs: At farms 14.5-16.4c 1,807,000 head: 9 per cent at 14.5c, 62 per cent at 15c, 10 per cent at 15.5-15.9c, 2 per cent at 16-16.4c, 2 per cent intracompany sales booked at 14.5c, 12 per cent intracompany sales booked at 15c, 3 per cent undetermined.

Hens: Trading light under a fair demand. Offerings light. Prices paid per pound for heavy type at farms 16c, f.o.b. plants 16-18c, light type at farms 8c, f.o.b. plants too few to report.

Coffee Futures

NEW YORK (AP)—Coffee futures were firm. According to latest trade reports, the Washington coffee meetings will probably not get under way until June 24 instead of June 22 as previously expected. Some observers think the meeting may not be concluded until September in an effort to expand the Latin American coffee agreement into a worldwide pact.

Roasters showed little buying interest in the green coffee market.

Coffee spot Santos No. 4 ex-dock closed at 36.50a. Cost and freight offerings include Santos Bourbons 3s at 36-50-36.75a and 5s 35.50-35.75a.

10 STOCKS UNDER $20 for big rises in 1959-60

In mid-1958, American Motors stock burst like a meteor on the market...surging from 10 to 43 in less than 11 months. Most people were surprised at this rise. Yet shrewd traders who detected the 3 clear "buy signals" given by this stock could have turned $1000 into $4300 in less than a year. In 1957, Texas Instruments gave 2 clear-cut "buy signals." Yet probably not 1 investor in 1000 bought this stock around 16 for the rise to over 130.

Which 10 of These 26 Stocks Are Poised for Profits Now?

Alleghany Corp. / Nat. Bellas H. / Amer. Electron. / Nat. Union El. / Assoc. Oil & G. / Northeast Airl. / Avco / Panellit / Babbitt / Penn-Texas / British Pete. / Sonotone / Canada Dry / S. A. Gold & P. / Cinerama / Spencer Shoe / Clary Corp. / Standard Coil / Dynamics Corp. / Stude.-Packard / Kawneer / Twin Coach / Lear Inc. / U.S. Industries / Muter Co. / Victoreen

Our editors have just uncovered 10 unusually interesting low-priced situations which appear primed to buy now. They are specifically chosen for the individual who is willing to accept a higher degree of risk for a greater profit potential. Here are a few highlights from this new report entitled "10 STOCKS UNDER $20 WITH A HIGH PROFIT POTENTIAL FOR 1959-60."

One, now selling around 17, is a listed supplier to the aircraft industry. New management and elimination of 2 unprofitable divisions make this stock a candidate for a dramatic rise. Another has 2 features often identified with "Special Situations." A small supply of stock in the hands of the public and a new acquisition could send this stock soaring.

Most Grains Rise Sharply

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures dealers boldly bid wheat, rye and new crop soybean contracts sharply higher on the Board of Trade then squelched a threat of profit taking shortly before the close.

Nearly all the contracts finished within small fractions of their highs for the day with wheat and rye ahead by 2 cents or more and new crop soybeans up well over a cent. The feed grains and July soybeans gained mostly small fractions.

Trading was active with volume probably the largest in several weeks. Recently the total has not exceeded 30 million bushels most days for all pits.

October Lint Lone Loser

NEW YORK —Cotton futures closed 10 cents a bale lower to 50 cents higher. Only nearby October showed a decline.

Trading was slow except for a fair amount of professional operations in distant months. Gains extended to $1 a bale before prices backed away partially on profit taking. Traders bought distant July against sales of October, 1960, futures at price differentials of more than 2 cents a a pound.

Futures closed 10 cents a bale lower to 50 cents higher than the previous close.

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK (AP)—World sugar futures weakened. Paced by liquidation in nearby July, prior to first notice day this Wednesday. Other selling was predicted on uncertainty over Cuban economic policies and their impact on the Cuban sugar industry.

World raws were quoted at 2.80 cents a pound f.a.s. Cuba.

Domestic futures were lower. There were 112 contracts posted in nearby July futures against business in actuals.

The domestic raw market was quiet, with offerings held at 6.40 cents a pound delivered. It was reported that late last Friday a cane refiner bought a total of 8,200 tons of raws for delivery at New Orleans at prices at 6.31 and 6.33 cents a pound delivered basis. This was little better than levels at New York taking into account freight differences.

Killer to Children: 'Say Prayers, Hon'

AUGUSTA (AP)—"Say your prayers, hon," were the last words James Hofer spoke to his little daughters before shooting them and himself to death, a policeman said Monday.

Another policeman died of wounds received in a furious gun battle that followed Hofer's forced entry into the home of his estranged wife's parents here Sunday night.

Patrolman R. V. Holmes told of hearing a last exchange of words between Hofer and his daughters, Vicki Ann, 4, and Kathleen, 2, as Holmes crept up the stairs after Hofer.

"Daddy, please don't hurt us," Holmes heard one of the children say from the darkened hallway. When Hofer told her to say her prayers, Holmes said, the little girl replied, "I want my mommy when I say my prayers."

Several shots followed, Holmes said, none apparently aimed at him. The officer said he fired only one more shot toward Hofer.

"We found Hofer lying on the floor of the hall with one child lying on his left side and the other across his feet," police Sgt. Sumter Lewis said. A funeral home attendant said bodies of both children bore powder burns and that one bore the imprint of a gun muzzle.

Hofer, 34, was a Pensacola, Fla., businessman. Last April he was charged with kidnaping his wife in Florida while she was on the way to Pensacola for a divorce hearing.

Mrs. Hofer, who apparently fled down a back stairway during the gun battle, had lived here with her children in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bailey.

Bailey, a railroad car inspector, said, "I would have got him if he hadn't pulled my wife between us."
